U.S. Planes With 'Shoot' Orders Sent Up Against NATO Snoopers

WITH U. S. 6TH FLEET OFF TURKEY (AP) — Pursuit planes of U.S. 6th Fleet with "shoot" orders went into action this week against an aircraft snooping on fleet maneuvers.

The intruding plane — believed to have been a Russian jet on a photographic mission — escaped to Communist Bulgaria before American carrier planes could intercept it.

Vice Adm. Charles R. Brown, 6th Fleet commander, ordered missile-carrying Navy jets to shoot down the plane Thursday when it flew over American amphibious forces off Turkey for the fourth straight day. Brown signaled his carrier force "a possibly hostile aircraft is approaching your area. If it menaces your formation use sidewinders — air-to-air missiles — to prevent photography."

Although Brown declined to confirm or deny officially that such a message was transmitted, many officers and several civilians saw copies of it. The admiral declined to permit correspondents to transmit the story over Navy communications, but said they could do so by other means.

Commanders of the three carriers in the 90-ship fleet ordered their jets ready for take off while Navy delta wing Skyraiders already in the air sought out the plane.

Prepared to shoot, the carrier pilot remarked later: "I was prepared to fire the first shot in World War III."

The plane, a twin jet swing-wing craft, turned away before reaching the carrier formation and the Skyraiders already aloft failed to make contact.

The plane was first spotted Monday when it flew at high altitude over the American amphibious force massed off Turkey for NATO exercises 30 miles south of Bulgaria. Navy officials said the plane came from the direction of Bessarabia, across the Black Sea and along the Romanian and Bulgarian coasts.

Tracked By Radar

It made similar mid-day appearances Tuesday and Wednesday, flying at higher than 35,000 feet and at a speed of 600 m.p.h. The 6th Fleet tracked it by radar and by its vapor trails but took no action the first three days.

On Thursday, it flashed across the amphibious force at low altitude, again around mid-day, and Brown issued the order to bring it down if it menaced the carrier formation.

The NATO war games, called Exercise Deepwater, ended today. Earlier in the maneuvers, the U. S. carrier Lake Champlain made a sonar contact with an unidentified submarine.

AIR FORCE OFFICER FROM PEORIA DIES IN JET CRASH

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Lt. L. L. Marvin D. Graves, 24, Peoria, Ill., crashed fatally as he pointed F-86 jet at the Moody Army Air Base field for a landing Friday night after successful completion of a radar detection mission.

The flier came in on instruments at 20,000 feet at 8:01 p.m., Moody reported, and moments later radioed that he had the field in sight and would continue with a visual approach and landing.

That was the last message from him. After an all-night helicopter and ground search, the wreckage was found at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in scrub pine, a mile southwest of the field. Base doctors estimated that he died at 8:15 p.m.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clyde Graves of Peoria, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Kathryn Beasley, Metamora, Ill.

With Labor Rackets Probe

McClellan Charges Hoffa Took Union Funds For His Own Benefit

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a new broadside at James R. Hoffa, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) Saturday accused the Teamsters Union leader of repeatedly tapping union treasuries for his own benefit.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee, fired off a statement listing 34 instances of what he described as "further improper activities of James R. Hoffa and his associates."

These came on top of 48 items listed at the close of committee hearings last month at which McClellan said Hoffa had "avoided and equivocated" hundreds of times in response to questions about his alleged associations with hoodlums and racketeers.

Saturday's blast capped a new series of hearings which wound up with Hoffa being pictured as the silent partner of a real estate promoter who planned to give Teamster members and other lot buyers "a good rooking."

McClellan struck no total in listing what he called "Hoffa" manipulation of union funds, but he ticked off 12 items ranging from a few thousand to one million dollars.

McClellan listed the larger item this way: "James R. Hoffa had one million dollars in union welfare funds loaned to the John W. Thomas department store in Minneapolis, Minn., despite the fact that a top store official had admitted the concern was near bankruptcy."

McClellan said Hoffa also caused $200,000 in union welfare funds to be loaned to the same store "despite the fact the store was in the midst of a strike by a fellow AFL union."

Under the hearing "improper union practices to the detriment of the members" McClellan listed 19 items.

They included these: "James R. Hoffa has constantly defended and given aid and comfort to Teamster Union officials who were selling out the interests of Teamster Union members by setting themselves up in highly improper business activities and by entering into collusive agreements with employers."

"James R. Hoffa has taken the part of employers and convicted extortionists against members of his own union as disclosed by sworn testimony by at least two witnesses before this committee."

There were three listings under "collusion by Mr. Hoffa with employers and others." These included one that Hoffa and Owen (Bert) Brennan, one of his Detroit Teamster lieutenants, "entered into a highly collusive business arrangement with Henry Lower for their own personal profit to the detriment of union members."

Lower, a Detroit real estate man, was described in testimony at Saturday's hearings as the active promoter of the Florida real estate project. Teamsters Union members were urged to buy lots in the development, advertised as "the Teamsters model city of tomorrow," but described by one salesman as "useless."

No date was set for resumption of the committee's inquiry, but McClellan indicated no further (Continued on Page Eleven)

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeals court Saturday cleared the way for the hotly controversial Teamsters Union election but warned that convention delegates must be seated in accordance with the union constitution.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia stayed a temporary injunction granted by federal Judge P. Dickinson Lettis. He had acted to block next week's election at Miami Beach on the plea that union bosses, with the aid of criminal elements, had rigged the balloting in favor of James R. Hoffa.

The three-man higher court held that, in issuing such an injunction, Lettis had "gone beyond the necessities of the situation."

Thomas J. Dodd, attorney for 13 New York Teamster members who had sought the injunction granted by Lettis, said he would make some kind of appeal Monday in an effort to have the injunction reinstated. The Teamsters convention is scheduled to set under way Monday.

Dodd said he may ask the appellate court for a rehearing or might ask a Supreme Court justice to nullify temporarily the results of the appellate court ruling. The Supreme Court is not now in session, but one of its judges presumably could act.

Even if the election is held, as now appears highly likely, the results could be a bone of contention in lengthy litigation, with the ultimate outcome in doubt.

Denies Use Of Troops Bears Resemblance To Hitler Tactics

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower accused Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus indirectly Saturday of encouraging mobs of extremists to flout federal court orders on school integration.

The President at the same time denied that his order sending federal troops into Little Rock bore any resemblance to Hitlerian tactics.

Eisenhower expressed his views in a telegram to Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), who had protested to the President against what he called high-handed and illegal methods being employed by the federal forces in Little Rock.

Faubus Considers Closing High School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said Saturday he might try to close Central High School, rather than continue its integrated classes at federal bayonet point.

"It would be a very pleasant development," he declared.

Faubus said enactment of new laws at a special session of the State Legislature would be a necessary prelude to any such drastic step. Earlier, he had revealed he was considering calling such a session although he had not yet done so.

Asked if a law to close the school would stand up in court, Faubus replied:

"I don't see why it shouldn't."

Faubus emphasized that any such decision is still in the future. He said he would proceed very cautiously in any move to rid the school of federal troops. They were sent in this week by President Eisenhower to enforce the classroom integration of six Negro girls and three boys.

The embattled governor — under fire from Eisenhower during the weekend class recess at the high school — talked to newsmen after conferring with a mothers' group who beseeched him to close the school.

Faubus conferred privately with the mothers. He told newsmen afterwards that he had given the delegation of women no answer. Then he remarked on his own feelings toward the closing of the school.

Faubus said he is leaving town overnight and has no plans to deal with the integration crisis during the weekend.

He had indicated in advance that he would spurn the plea of about 140 members of the Central High School Mothers League. All of the women are parents of white students in the school. Said Faubus:

"If the federal government can use bayonets to force integration, perhaps they could open the schools anyway."

The mothers were led into the executive mansion by Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice president of their league. She told reporters:

"If this move fails, there are still schools in Georgia and Mississippi, thank God."

Nine Negro students, escorted by U.S. Army paratroopers, spent three full days in Central High this week, bringing school integration to Arkansas' capital city for the first time in its history.

The Arkansas National Guard and mobs of white rioters had blocked the Negroes from their classrooms until President Eisenhower in midweek sent federal troops in to open a path for them.

The President based his action on a federal court mandate to integrate the high school.

The show of federal force was unprecedented in the modern era of the civil rights struggle. It stirred up a storm of vast protest in segregated areas of the deep South.

At the same time he sent in paratroopers, Eisenhower federalized the Arkansas National Guard, thus taking control of it away from Faubus. The governor said his use of the guard to bar the nine Negroes from Central High was a precaution against violence.

Stevenson Hopes For Quick Troop Withdrawal

CHAPLAIN HILL, N. C. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said Saturday he hopes that soldiers "can be quickly withdrawn" from the school integration scene at Little Rock, Ark.

The twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate, who had supported President Eisenhower's decision to send federal troops to Central High School at Little Rock, told a news conference the time has come "to bind up our wounds."

At the same time, Stevenson said he felt the "national misfortune" at Little Rock could have been avoided if President Eisenhower had earlier "clearly expressed" his position on enforcing court decrees for school integration.

With seven technicians and nurses assisting, the three connected a heart-lung machine to the host dog's vessels, near the heart, which took over the pumping job from the heart.

Then they isolated the heart and removed it. Simultaneously, they removed the heart from the other anesthetized dog and moved it quickly into the chest of the host dog. Quick, sure suturing, and freeing of the tied-off major blood vessels, and the transplanting was done.

The heart began a faint, erratic beat. The doctors massaged it into stronger action. Then it began an erratic twitching. The doctors brought it back to normal again by electrical stimulation.

For 68 minutes it continued to beat. Then it stopped—deadened by the dog's natural intolerance for foreign tissue.

The four-hour operation was performed Friday at Sinai Hospital, where Berman and Akman are staff members. Berman is a general surgeon and Akman is a cardiologist.

The telegram did not mention Faubus by name, but in an obvious reference to the Arkansas chief executive the President said:

"When a state, by seeking to frustrate the orders of a federal court, encourages mobs of extremists to flout the orders of a federal court, and when a state refuses to utilize its police powers to protect against mobs persons who are peaceably exercising their right under the Constitution as defined in such court orders, the oath of office of the President requires that he take action to give the protection."

"Failure to act in such a case would be tantamount to acquiescence in anarchy and dissolution of the Union."

Russell's Charges

Russell, in a telegram sent to the President Thursday, said the soldiers had cracked one citizen on the head with a rifle butt and had pushed others down a street with bayonets at their throats.

The senator said the soldiers were "disregarding and over-riding the elementary rights of American citizens by applying tactics which must have been copied from the manual issued the officers of Hitler's storm troops."

"However, since you have seen fit to order the troops into action, they should observe the elementary rights of American citizens who are violating no federal law."

Russell said millions of patriotic Americans "will strongly resent the armed totalitarian police state methods being employed at Little Rock."

President's Reply

The President, in his reply, declared:

"I must say that I completely fail to comprehend your comparison of our troops to Hitler's storm troops. In one case military power was used to further the ambitions and purposes of a ruthless dictator; in the other to preserve the institutions of free government."

"You allege certain wrongdoings on the part of individual soldiers at Little Rock. The secretary of the Army will assemble the facts and report them directly to you."

Eisenhower told Russell that "few times in my life have I felt as saddened as when the obligations of my office required me to order the use of a force within a state to carry out the decisions of a federal court."

The President referred unmistakably to the action of Gov. Faubus in calling out the National Guard.

Scientists Near Success n Finding Cheap Method To, Desalt Sea Water

WASHINGTON (AP)—All over the world, man is struggling to realize his ancient dream of making the deserts bloom by unlocking fresh water from the salty seas. At last—spurred by drought, booming population and vastly expanding industrial usage—American scientists may be approaching the outer threshold of success.

There is no secret about converting salt water to fresh. The sun does it every day, vaporizing billions of tons of sea water and lifting it into the clouds, then returning it to earth as rain. Man finds it more difficult.

Past civilizations have risen and fallen according to their water resources.

Experts say the same thing could happen here, unless new sources of water are found. Almost every year more than 1,000 U.S. cities and towns are forced to restrict water usage in dry spells. In Dallas, jugged water sold for 50 cents a gallon during the drought early this year.

Warned of the impending danger, Congress in 1952 set up the Office of Saline Water in the Interior Department and authorized a multimillion-dollar program to develop economical methods of converting salty or brackish water into fresh water.

Patience sifting through literally hundreds of proposals, the agency has yet to come up with a final answer.

In many other countries—England, Spain, Israel, Yugoslavia, French Morocco, South Africa, Italy, Australia and elsewhere—top research teams are trying to solve the riddle.

Scientists know the answer, within limits. The rub is how to do it cheaply enough.

Where cost is not the controlling factor, huge conversion plants are already producing millions of gallons of desalted water daily.

U.S. Navy ships have been distilling their own water from the sea for more than 40 years.

In the little oil-rich kingdom of Kuwait, on the Persian Gulf, U.S.-built sea water evaporators can turn out five millions gallons of fresh water a day. On the Dutch island of Aruba, site of great oil refineries off the coast of Venezuela, similar units distill three million gallons daily. These two are the largest ever constructed.

In the United States, the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has spent over 44 million dollars on a plant at Morro Bay, Calif., to convert ocean water into fresh water for its giant steam boilers. It has a capacity of 144,000 gallons a day. Even at a cost of $1.96 per 1,000 gallons for the converted water—compared with 25 cents a thousand for San Francisco municipal water—the company figures it is cheaper to distill sea water than to sink wells or build dams.

But the average U.S. household, accustomed to paying about 30 cents a thousand gallons, would shudder at the thought of paying $1.96. So would the farmer who now pays around 12 cents per 1,000 gallons for irrigation.

The job, then, is to knock the cost of desalted water down to an acceptable level.

Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, in his latest report to Congress, announced "significant progress" and commented:

"If research and pilot-plant work now started is successful, it appears reasonably certain that costs of large-scale distillation of saline water will be reduced to 50 cents or less per thousand gallons in the near future."

How near is the "near future?" OSW officials don't say.

Testifying before a House Interior subcommittee, OSW Director David S. Jenkins called the program "the most difficult assignment in physical chemistry and engineering economics ever undertaken by the federal government."

Jenkins talks of the five-year-old program as being "still in its infancy," but recently he hazarded this forecast: "If present research is successful, fresh water from the sea should be available within 5 to 15 years at prices which many industries and some municipalities can pay."

Right now the federal agency is banking heavily on a series of pilot-plant tests scheduled to begin late this fall or early next year under contract with the Office of Saline Water.

Currently regarded as the best bet so far among 600-odd proposals submitted since 1952 are the following:

1. Hickman rotary process. Developed by London-born Dr. Kenneth C. D. Hickman of Rochester, N. Y., former Eastman Kodak research director, the pilot plant is designed to produce 25,000 gallons a day of fresh water from the ocean through vapor compression distillation.

Using low heat, it is less subject to scale formation, which has been the nemesis of high-temperature methods.

The Hickman plant, already built, is now being created for shipment from Cambridge, Mass., to its seaside site at Harbor Island, N. C. Tests running at least a year are expected to start in November.

2. Badger multiple-effect distillation process. Invented by W. L. Badger of Ann Arbor, Mich., former University of Michigan professor. The pilot plant is now being erected at Harbor Island and may begin operating in October. If successful it would serve as the model for a mass production plant costing over six million dollars with a rated capacity of 17 million gallons a day.

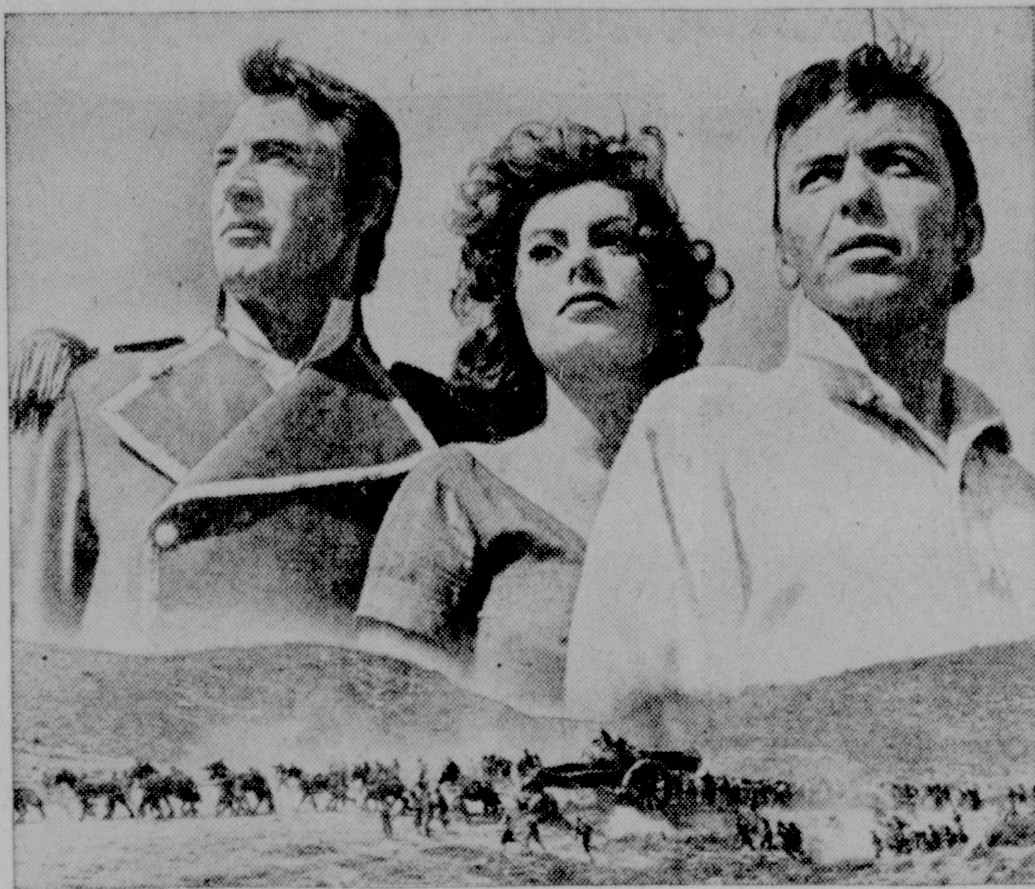

The "big if" in the Badger process, according to OSW officials, is whether it can eliminate scale deposits which could clog the apparatus.

Badger told the House Interior Committee his multistage process is "much cheaper than anything that has ever been talked about." He said he expects to desalt sea water for "somewhere between 30 and 40 cents per thousand gallons—provided I can lick the scale problem." And he expects to solve that within a year.

3. Plastic solar distillation. A new, tough plastic developed by

Municipal Airport Activities

The 5th annual Farm Progress show was held Wednesday and Thursday at Farmer City, Illinois. This show includes all of the latest farm machinery in actual demonstration. Approximately 110,000 persons attended on Wednesday.

A landing strip was available on the farm for persons flying to the show and a 40 acre field was set aside for the parking of aircraft, which was filled to capacity the first day.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. may provide a relatively inexpensive method of open-air distillation, using the sun's heat to vaporize salt water in shallow plastic-covered basins.

Much cheaper than glass, the Du Pont plastic reportedly will stand at least 10 years of exposure in the hot sun. OSW Director Jenkins calls it an "important step forward," but Du Pont officials say they still have a long way to go to make their method cheap enough.

4. Lot process. Developed by Dr. George O. G. Lot, Denver engineer, this new design in solar distillation uses a still in which the product acts as a storage tank for the sun's heat and continues to evaporate water when the sun isn't shining. In most solar stills, evaporation tapers off when the sun goes down.

Lot estimates his method will produce one-fifth gallon of fresh water per square foot daily at 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Pilot-plant tests of both the Lot system and Du Pont's plastic had been scheduled to be held on a six-acre site at Ocean Beach near San Diego, Calif., in the next few months.

However, Congress slashed OSW's meager funds so sharply that the agency is now counting pennies to see whether it has enough money to go ahead with the two solar tests.

Idaho Is Only U.S. Source Of Strategic Metal Columbium

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The rich black mud of an Idaho mountain stream could become the savior of American jet airplane production in the event of a war.

Bear Valley Creek, about 70 miles northeast of Boise, currently is the source of virtually the entire American domestic supply of the vital mineral columbium and tantalum.

Columbium, alloyed with steel, gives it the strength to withstand the fierce heat generated in jet engines and atomic reactors. Tantalum is important in electronics.

Until last year, the United States imported 99 per cent of its columbium and tantalum, mostly from Africa. The bulk of it still comes from abroad but the figure now is much less.

In the event of war and the lanes, Bear Valley Creek possibly could become America's only source of the strategic minerals.

Porter Bros. Corp., a mining firm, investigated in 1956 several properties in the Pacific northwest in the search for monazite, a source of strategic rare earths.

Geologists went to Bear Valley after prospectors reported evidence of radioactive minerals there. Instead of monazite, they found euxenite, a source of tantalum, columbium and uranium.

and a new form of columbium-tantalum ore Porter Bros. had to develop new methods of mechanical separation. Officials estimate they now have a three million dollar investment in the dredging works and a separating plant at Lowman, about 20 miles away.

In addition, Mallinckrodt Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mo., built a two millidollar refining plant in St. Louis to handle the Bear Valley output.

Last year, world-wide production of columbium-tantalum declined 17 per cent. In the U.S., it increased 1,700 per cent because of the Porter Bros. operation.

Porter Bros. employs nearly 100 men on a year-around basis. About half of them work at the dredging site. They put in 18 days straight, then take three days off to make the three-hour drive to Boise for a weekend.

Carrollton Lions To Construct Bandstand

CARROLLTON — The Carrollton Lions Club made plans at their dinner meeting, Thursday evening, at the Hilltop supper club near White Hall, to construct a new bandstand for the use of the Carrollton Community, the place of erection to be decided upon later.

The bandstand will be constructed of concrete and will be built on concrete blocks. It will be a permanent structure and will be used for band concerts, for the annual Halloween parade reviewing stand for the Christmas Festival and for other events which are of benefit to the city and the surrounding area. More definite plans will be announced later when the size of the structure and its possible cost will have been investigated.

The annual Halloween parade this year will be held without the use of the new bandstand, but according to present plans the new mercury vapor lights will enhance the costumes and make them more easily seen than in the past. Everett Mehl is the Halloween parade chairman and his assistants are William Miner, and Kenneth Ross.

One Of The Rarest Trees In World Grows In Ramsey, Ill.

RAMSEY, Ill. (AP) — A tree grows in Ramsey that descends from the days of the dinosaurs.

The slender, 14-foot-high oddity is a dawn redwood tree—one of the earth's rarest. The only known close relative of California's giant redwoods, its scientific name is metasequoia glyptostroboides.

Mrs. Noy L. Hauskins, an attractive widow of 65, grew it in her garden from seed provided by Harvard University's Arnold Arboretum. Of 11 originally planted on her south central Illinois land, it is the only healthy survivor. Most of the others died, and the several remaining more respectable shrubs.

So rare is the dawn redwood it sometimes is called a living fossil because it was thought to have become extinct millions of years ago.

An oriental scientist discovered the first one near remote Szechuan, China in 1944. It was isolated from other nearby terrain, and botanists since have been trying to preserve it as one of the world's oldest living trees.

The dawn redwood has been known to reach a trunk thickness of seven feet. But Mrs. Hauskins' tree now is only the size of a large Christmas tree.

That's still an accomplishment for an amateur botanist. Scientists have been unsuccessful in growing it in many places, including some of the nation's most famous arboreta. One dawn redwood has been grown on the University of Illinois campus at Champaign, but officials say it isn't as healthy as the Ramsey tree.

Mrs. Hauskins, who has "spent all my life among trees," says she planted the seed for the tree in a flower pot. That was nine years ago. Since then it has grown tall and adapted easily to the changeable Fayette County weather.

Today its brilliant green needle leaves, resembling cypress, and red-brown trunk make it instantly stand out among scores of trees on her five acre tract. Her garden resembles a small arboretum. "I love trees," explains Mrs. Hauskins, mother of four sons and two daughters. "They have made my life full since my husband died and my children have grown up."

Her tiny white frame house and tree-studded land illustrate her love for all things botanical. Trees shade the house from three sides. Over rolling terrain she has planted many trees — some familiar, some rare.

For instance, there are cedars of Lebanon and Myrtle, trees mentioned in the Bible. There also is a Franklin tree, named for Benjamin Franklin and first planted in Philadelphia in 1777 by William Bartram, who brought it from Georgia.

And there is a big, sturdy oak tree. "Of all my trees," says Mrs. Hauskins, "that big oak is my favorite. This place just wouldn't be complete without it."

BEYOND THE CALL OF DUTY
COFFEYVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Two Coffeyville fire trucks answered a house-on-fire call.

Arriving at the scene, they found it was a dog house and that the owner, Cornelius Slaughter, Jr., had put out the blaze with a garden hose.

But firemen had one task—that of dodging the dog which showed a lot of teeth and an inclination to resent the entire incident.

PITTSFIELD — Brad McCulloch, aged 4, who has been in St. Mary's hospital in Quincy since August 30 being treated for polio, has so far recovered as to be able to return to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll McCulloch on East Adams street.

He will return to the hospital at intervals for resistive exercises to strengthen his lower legs, which were effected by the attack of polio. It is believed that there will be no crippling effects.

Miss Betty Brown, sixteen year old daughter of Mrs. Orin Campbell of Barry, is reported to be improving from polio in St. Anthony's hospital in St. Louis, where she has regained partial use of her lower limbs which were paralyzed, and although she will have to remain in the hospital for some time for therapy, it is believed that she will recover satisfactorily.

Present were 25 members, 18 Boy Scouts of Troop 117; two district Scout executives, Jack Corrigan, director, and Junior Davidsmeyer, commissioner; and a special Scout guest, Jerry Bellinson of Troop 106.

The film for the evening was "Quest for the Red Trout." The building planning committee appointed at the last meeting made recommendations and used the high school's apaque projector to show tentative plans for enlarging the club house and making it more modern.

Unit 11's new vo-og instructor, Howard McPherson, was presented to the club members by Chel Young, the unit superintendent. William Hawkshaw introduced Mr. Corrigan who, in turn, introduced Mr. Davidsmeyer and Scout Bellinson. Mr. Corrigan made a short talk explaining the United Fund drive and urging its support. Mr. Davidsmeyer named the Troop 117 committee members who were present: Walter Clark, Warren Edlen, Kenneth Grammer, Richard James, James Major and William Hawkshaw.

Mr. Major is the troop leader and Mr. Edlen is advisor to the Explorers; Mr. Hawkshaw, institutional representative. Mr. Davidsmeyer presented Troop 117's charter and a certificate of 100% subscription to "Boys' Life" to Joe Schneider, club president, who accepted them on behalf of the Sportsmen's Club. The club sponsors the Scouts and subscribes to "Boys' Life" for them.

Mr. Hawkshaw gave membership cards to the Scouts of Troop 117 attending the meeting. They

Carrollton Man Found Guilty Of Court Contempt

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Keith T. Borlin, 45, of Carrollton was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to 60 days in jail by Judge Charles G. Briggie in U.S. District Court. Borlin was released on $1,000 bond. His sentence begins Nov. 1.

The contempt citation arose out of a civil suit in which Borlin testified he had not received credit on his loan for a payment of $2,569.39, which he said he had returned to the Small Business Administration.

U.S. District Atty. John B. Stoddard said the statement was proved false and that the court held the perjury tended to obstruct justice and mislead the court.

Borlin is owner of the Community Cold Storage Locker Co., Carrollton.

Looking through a one-way glass window, prospective parents view baby at Spence-Chapin Adoption Service.

PARENT COMPANY Adoption Service Finds Homes for 200 Annually

A Spence-Chapin representative assures a young unwed mother the organization will find a good home for her baby.

EACH YEAR more than 1,500 applications come in to the Spence-Chapin Adoption Service in New York City, an institution dedicated to finding homes for the infants of unwed mothers and of parents who have proved beyond a reasonable doubt their unwillingness to keep them.

Approximately 200 couples are selected out of the 1,500 applications for adoptive placement. When the couple's turn finally comes they are invited to a "showing room." Through one-way glass the prospective parents can view the baby, but, even when awake, the baby cannot see them. The pre-showing gives the prospective foster parents the opportunity of seeing the baby without any ties whatsoever. Often, the infant, for some reason or other, may not be acceptable.

Once the child has been selected the prospective parents see the baby in person. Here, emotional ties begin to build up. But again, if the parents have any reservations, another infant would probably be shown. By now the Spence-Chapin representative has gotten to know the couple thoroughly and has assessed such factors as love, consideration, husband-wife relations, etc.

The service does not keep any infants at its headquarters. When the baby leaves the hospital it is immediately put into a carefully selected boarding parents' home until arrangements are completed for transfer of the baby to the new parents. Three times a week the boarding parents bring the children to Spence-Chapin's baby clinic for a checkup. Under an ironclad contract the boarding parents cannot adopt the child in their custody and must give up the infant when an adoptive home has been found.

Once the baby has been transferred to the new parents, regular visits by the adoption society representatives to the home are made until final papers for the adoption have come through.

DURING THE TRIAL PERIOD overjoyed new parents proudly show a Chapin representative the infant they are adopting.

A GROUP of baby specialists at the adoption service keep a close check on the health and well-being of youngsters that have been placed for adoption.

THE FIRST MEETING of the prospective parents (right) with the infant they are planning to adopt is always emotional. New parents are carefully screened.

CAREFULLY SELECTED boarding mothers, who are paid for their work, bring the children to the baby clinic for a check-up. They chat while waiting their turn.

BOARDING PARENTS are selected for orderliness of their homes and lives, their love of children, cleanliness and However, they cannot adopt the infant.

THE WELL-ROUNDED SQUARE

THE DAVE BRUBECK QUARTET

A music notebook is as important to the traveling musician as a sketch pad is to the artist. So begins Mr. Brubeck's descriptive program notes to his original compositions, "Jazz Impressions of the U.S.A." (Columbia CL 954). But I suggest that if a gadabout artist painted eight canvases of artistic integrity and merit equal to the eight impressions offered here, he would never get a one man show in any gallery that I ever sauntered through.

This disc is obviously aimed at the Brubeck coterie for whom, it is thought, Mr. Dave can do no wrong; but there is no better way to cook a coterie in pretty short order than to shoot a blue plate like this over the counter just once too often. The Brubeck Quartet has a very considerable talent, happily proven here in four of the impressions; and because it is a talent of reputation and generally exciting substance, it should not be permitted to dissipate itself just to meet a release date, or whatever. It takes a while of a talent to compose 40 minutes of worthwhile music. Mr. Brubeck's ability realizes only about 20 minutes of his ambition. Even the dearest teenager will be able to spot the section of the U.S.A. which made an impression on the quartet: an impression which, once assimilated and projected rhythmically in music, unmistakably evokes the sound of its roots and origins. Brubeck grew up on a ranch that's his background. And I'm just imagining this, but I can see Paul Desmond standing quite alone on a vast prairie, cooling a hot Nebraska breeze with his lovely alo.

For "Plain Song" and "Ode to a Cowboy" are definite successes, with first place to "Song" because it is more mature, because it delineates the more difficult subjects of impersonality, loneliness, how the land must feel without people. "Cowboy" is a kick, he tangles with the Spanish-American girls, he sings his lonesome heart out, and he slips away from us, galloping galloping. Brubeck knew he had something here, for his piano is the Cowboy's sidekick, and the "Plain Song" beat.

Despite the efforts of Desmond to stir up a breeze, "Summer Song" is a dud, without shadow or shimmer. "Yonder For Two" purports to be "a tribute to the early New Orleans jazz musicians," but I detect Peoria, 1928, in its simple, unimaginative reading. "History of a Boy Scout"

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—This week was a convulsive one for the stock market as prices fell on average to their lowest point since October 1935.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $4.30 to $165.50. It was the second straight week that the market had taken severe losses, but this week the drop was accompanied by the biggest volume since the week ended July 13. That was the week the market climbed to its high for 1937. Since then there has been an overall decline with merely intermittent rallies.

The heavy selling clipped an estimated $3,330,000,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, but the approximate value of the listed stocks is a mammoth 212 billion dollars on current quoted value.

So the sharp drop was by no means an omen that judgment day is at hand. The decline to values of two years ago still left them on pretty high ground, historically speaking. Nevertheless this was a rough week for short-term traders.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Behlmeum Steel, off 1/4 at 4 1/2; 150,000 shares; Central Motor Co. off 1/2 at 10; Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1/4 at 56 1/2; U.S. Steel, off 1/4 at 60; and Chrysler, off 1/4 at 72 1/2.

MANY FACTORS PUSH GRAIN, BEAN FUTURES LOWER

CHICAGO (AP)—Liquidation, favorable crop weather, fewer pennings under price supports and expanding harvests were among factors which this week forced grain and soybean futures to their lowest levels of the season.

As a result, all Board of Trade futures, with the exception of May wheat, ended lower Friday for the third consecutive week.

Wheat ended the week 1 1/2 lower, 1 cent a bushel higher compared with Friday a week ago. Corn was down 2 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel, oats were up 1/4 to 2 1/4 cents, rye declined 1/4 to 3 1/4 cents, soybeans lost 1/4 to 3 1/4 cents a bushel and lard was off 35 to 65 cents a hundred pounds for the week.

Soybeans were hardest hit, losing up to 5 cents a bushel for the week. Easiness in beans was flung by the failure of any big gains to develop, greatly curtailing harvest operations and speculations that the crop will exceed the 459 million bushels forecast by the government.

The Geiger's crew collected $600 and gave it to them.

PRESIDENT CHARGES FAUBUS ENCOURAGED EXTREMISTS

Guard Sept. 2 to bar nine Negroes from attending classes at Central High School on the ground he wished to prevent violence.

Encouraged Trouble "My conviction," said the President, "is that had the police powers of the State of Arkansas been utilized not to frustrate the orders of the court, but to support them, the ensuing violence and open disrespect for the law and for the federal judiciary would never have occurred."

"The Arkansas National Guard could have handled the situation with ease had it been instructed to do so."

"As a matter of fact, had the integration of Central High School been permitted to take place without the intervention of the National Guard there is little doubt that the process would have gone along quite as smoothly and quietly as it has in other Arkansas communities."

The President's telegram to Russell, concluded by the phrase, "with warm regards," came just two weeks after Eisenhower had conferred here with Faubus on the Little Rock situation. Faubus kept the guard on duty after the conference, and the President subsequently expressed himself as "deeply disappointed."

To End Vacation James C. Hagerly, presidential press secretary, announced the Eisenhower will end their vacation here either Monday or Tuesday. The President will confer Tuesday in Washington with a committee of five Southern governors.

The governors asked the conference solely to discuss the earliest possible withdrawal of troops from Little Rock. The President agreed to the meeting with the understanding its scope would not be limited to the troop question but to the school integration situation generally.

Lower had been scheduled as the day's principal witness but he along with the rest of the committee was told that a government physician had verified this.

The story of the Sun Valley project near Orlando, Fla., was pieced together by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, committee investigator Carmine S. Bellino, and Joseph Krilich, a former big league baseball scout who helped sell the lots. Krilich is now an automobile dealer in Northville, Mich.

Another witness was George Fitzgerald, former Democratic national committeeman from Michigan and counsel to Hoffa, who said he advised both Hoffa and Lower against using Teamster Union funds in financing the project.

Fitzgerald identified a memorandum he wrote last year advising Hoffa and Lower that the Sun Valley project was "unfavorable from both a legal and practical standpoint" and that "the law would condemn placing union funds" as an investment in it.

"Despite this memorandum," committee counsel Kennedy said, "the union went on to loan and pay huge sums of money" toward the development.

Kennedy said the development offered Hoffa and Lower a chance to make "a tremendous killing" by risking union funds instead of their own.

Seated in his "easy" chair is John W. Baptist and his faithful companion "Puggy." He will retire as head of the city sewer department, effective October 31, after 17 years of public service.

John W. Baptist, City Sewer Superintendent 17 Years, To Retire

John W. Baptist, 925 Beasley Ave., well known Jacksonville resident during his 85 years, will retire from his post of City Sewer Superintendent, held for the past 17 years, effective at the end of October.

Mr. Baptist was born in Jacksonville and was very active in the construction field in and around the city until 1941 when he accepted the city post, and has since that time witnessed a great expansion program within the city. He said that "since I started with the city, the number of sewer openings has increased more than three times."

His name will be remembered for years to come by those who notice imprints on the sidewalks of the city, having led all of the sidewalks in central park and several miles of other walks along residential streets — all marked with the imprint of "J. W. Baptist."

Notably the foremost authority in the city on the location of nearly every sewer in Jacksonville, Mr. Baptist receives inquiries from plumbers, contractors, home owners, real estate men, and others each day, wanting to know the location of various sewers, types and signs.

Mr. Baptist recalled when he personally had the sewer located on Center St., "many years ago" under Mayor John J. Reeve.

Plans After Retirement When asked what he will do after retirement, his reply was, "I'm going to take life easy, by visiting my children, working around the house, and teach my faithful companion 'Puggy' some new tricks."

He said he looks forward to holidays such as Christmas and family gatherings as he can see all of his children.

Council Sends "Best Wishes" A resolution was passed at a recent meeting of the city council in which it was made a matter of record that the best wishes of Mayor DuBois and the city aldermen be conveyed to Mr. Baptist on his retirement, followed by the acceptance of his resignation, with deepest regrets.

Mr. Baptist resides with his son Wallace, his wife having died some 30 years previous. Three other children survive: Mrs. Virginia Vasconcellos of Jacksonville; Mrs. Margaret Day, Decatur; and Ross, of Rock Island.

He is a member of Northminster Presbyterian church, IOOF No. 4 and Encampment.

New Democratic Group Questions Present Leaders

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Leaders of the regular Democratic organization were criticized Saturday at a statewide meeting to form party clubs in Illinois.

Harold Pogue of Decatur, former University of Illinois trustee, said the new group, known as the Democratic Federation of Illinois, was "not challenging the present leadership but certainly is questioning it."

Pogue criticized the major role played by Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago in aiding the Democratic state ticket last year, and asserted, "We want leaders but not dictators."

Between 200 and 300 persons attended the federation's organizational meeting. Most of those present were supporters of Former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Edward T. Kelly of Chicago, assistant to U. S. Sen. Paul Douglas, said the new group was not "anti-Daley rebels" and that the recently formed Democratic county chairmen's association was a "good thing."

Kelly said one of the main objectives of the federation is to help elect a Democratic governor in 1960.

John E. Cassidy of Peoria, former Illinois attorney general, joined in the criticism of Democratic stalwarts in 1960.

"Let's not even again let a handful of men behind closed doors appropriate to themselves the vital business of the people as they did then," Cassidy declared.

He said the slate-making practices of the Democratic organization leaders "have outraged the letter and spirit of our primary law."

Dan Walker, a Chicago attorney, presided at the morning and afternoon sessions. He said the federation plans to call a convention after the 1958 primary to establish a permanent organization.

A preamble to the federation's proposed provisional by-laws said there was "no hostility to any individual or group" and that the federation recognized the regular Democratic organization as the "legally constituted instrument of political administration."

The federation's stated purposes are to mobilize independent voters, strengthen fund-raising programs, build in the Democratic party throughout the State, keep voters informed of the party's record and program, and encourage qualified candidates to seek office.

HIS KISSES WORTH $16,666

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—A jury Saturday awarded $16,666 to a man whose wife committed a railroad accident impaired his kissing ability.

Ellis Dotsen, 44, of near Willard, had sued the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for $25,000 for injuries he suffered Dec. 1, 1935 when he was hit by a freight car while employed as a brakeman.

His wife, Mildred, testified the injury impaired his ability to work on their farm, caused an impediment in his speech.

Faubus Considers Closing High School

U.S. District Court a week ago enjoined against interference with integration. When classes resumed Monday, savage rioting broke out. It subsided with the arrival Tuesday night of regular Army troops with steel helmets and fixed bayonets.

For the next three full school days, from Wednesday through the end of classes Friday, the nine Negroes were escorted to and from classes by armed paratroopers.

By Friday afternoon, the big school had settled into a school-like routine marred only by the continued absenteeism of about 550 of its 2,600 white students. They stayed away rather than share "their classrooms with the Negroes."

Central High School's crack football team played — and won — before several thousand spectators at the campus stadium Friday night. Despite ominous advance hints by students, there were no disturbances in the stadium. Negroes, by tradition, do not attend such Central High games, and none attempted to do so last night.

With classes in recess for the weekend, the next test in the integration struggle will come Monday. Then it may become apparent whether or not the absent white students will return to classes.

Attendance gradually increased this week from a Wednesday low of 1,250 to about 1,450 on Friday. High School Principal J. W. Matthews said he didn't know whether the absent students would begin coming back Monday.

Faubus claimed he was under pressure by numerous legislators to issue a special session call. Some legislators have advocated abolition of the state school system as desperate blow at Central High integration.

With the end of South in a grave turmoil over federal troop occupation of Little Rock, the factors behind the historic crisis still were under national examination.

Critics of Gov. Faubus blamed rioting and the subsequent federal intervention on the governor's use of his National Guard beginning Sept. 2 to bar the nine Negroes from Central High.

In Newport, R. I., during the day, President Eisenhower, in a telegram to Sen. Russell D. Gay, who accused federal troops in Little Rock of high-handed tactics reminiscent of Hitler's Nazi storm troopers.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Before Red Schoendienst was obtained from the Giants, Fred Haney constantly was reminded that all the Braves required was a holler guy in the infield.

Looking back on Schoendienst's tremendous performance, Manager Haney has to laugh.

"They said we needed a noisy guy," he says, "and the quietest man on the squad did the job."

Schoendienst gave the Milwaukee club numerous things it lacked before he reported—an accomplished second baseman and a switch-hitting lead-off man with power, among them. He wrapped the infield together, but most important of all was that the Braves gladly accepted him as an old pro and natural leader on the field.

Haney was smart enough to let Schoendienst handle practically everything but the removal of pitchers, whom the Cardinals' one-time Huckleberry Finn steered with a quiet word and a little pat on the backside. Schoendienst waved outfielders in and out and to the right or left, etc.

With Schoendienst's steady influence, the Braves undoubtedly would have prevailed a year ago. Recalling that frightfully disappointing finish in St. Louis, where the Tribe lost the pennant on the final day, the Braves say in unison, "Schoendienst wouldn't let us lose."

The Braves' victory is a tribute to Haney and the club's farm system, which is the best in the business. When help was needed, worst of all, came the left-hand slugging Bob Hazle to bat better than 400 and Don McMahon for more than 30 relief appearances.

Although Sudsby suffered more serious injuries than any other major league outfielder—five regulars were out throughout one protracted stretch—Haney never panicked. He just went on turning in a Joe McCarthy-type of managing, getting the most out of what he had.

On one eastern trip, he had Johnny Demerit, a bonus kid who had never before played in organized baseball, in center field and Catcher Del Crandall in right.

With all the bumps and bruises, Haney would sit in a hotel grill and say in that rich voice of his, "Forget the injuries. Sure, they hurt. But the fact is, you can't win a pennant unless you have a team of 25 players that can absorb serious injuries. You win with a deep club. If we lose, we'll have no excuses."

As a matter of fact, Haney was further handicapped by having no more than 23 players, for he was saddled by two bonus babies, Demerit and Catcher Bob Taylor.

Yet he was making it clear right then that he would have no alibi if the Braves failed again.

This despite the fact that both Haney and General Manager John J. Quinn probably would have been washed out of the Milwaukee picture by another flop. Not that Lou Perini wouldn't understand and would be dissatisfied, but the owner might have had to placate frustrated Wisconsin fans.

Now Fred Haney most likely will be elected Manager-of-the-Year and, under the circumstances, justly so.

As has so frequently been demonstrated when mad races for baseball flags go right down to the wire, the difference between success and failure is minute.

Irish Infield 12-0 Defeat On Boilermakers

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame, storming back from its worst football season, opened its 1957 campaign Saturday by whipping Purdue's Boilermakers 12-0. Purdue inflicted one of Notre Dame's eight defeats last year but Saturday it never penetrated the Irish 20-yard line.

Right halfback Dick Lynch scored from six yards out in the first quarter. The 76-yard drive featured a 22-yard run by quarterback Bob Williams after a fake handoff and Lynch's 22-yard pass to sprinter Aubrey Lewis.

Williams, capably filling the shoes of the graduated Paul Hornung, set up the fourth quarter touchdown with a pass to end Bob Wetoska that carried the ball 38-yards to the Purdue nine. Then he flipped it to halfback Frank Reynolds for the score.

The game was played under ideal weather conditions before a crowd of 52,000. Both teams bogged down repeatedly—apparently trying a little too hard.

Notre Dame lost the ball on downs at Purdue's four early in the third quarter and Lewis missed a field goal attempt from the 20 in the second period.

Purdue's best drive, a series of short punches through the Irish line, faded when quarterback Bob Spoo was snowed under for a 12-yard loss at the Notre Dame 32. That was the only time the Boilermakers were inside the Irish 45.

Notre Dame scoring—Touchdowns: Lynch (12 run); Reynolds (8, pass from Williams).

Gophers Flatten Washington, 46-7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Brawny Minnesota sounded its challenge to the nation's football powers Saturday by systematically flattening Washington, 46-7, before a record opening day crowd of 63,512 at Memorial Stadium.

From the moment Bobby Cox drilled a 10 yard touchdown pass to Jon Jelacic in the first quarter the sixth ranked Gophers rolled untroubled through a fumbling Washington team that didn't have the weight or manpower to give them an argument.

Cox and Dick Larson, who guided the Gophers' second platoon, opened up the Minnesota attack with a swift striking variety that spiced the Gophers' traditional straight ahead punch with sweeping pitch-outs and an efficient passing game.

Washington's Jimmy (Jet) Jones produced the most dramatic play of the game, however, when he grabbed the second half kickoff on the 9 and sped 91 yards to score.

Bob Blakely, a reckless, head-long running fullback, scored twice for Minnesota on runs of five and six yards. Dick Borstad, second platoon fullback, bucked over from three yards. Left halfback Dave Lindbloom raced 15 yards for another. End Ken Schultz got one on a three yard pass from Larson, and third string quarterback Jim Reese went over from the 2 in the fading minutes.

Minnesota showed over two touchdowns in the first quarter and one in the third for a top heavy lead that made the second half a formality.

Washington scoring—Touchdowns: Jones, 91 yards. Kickoff return. Conversion: Dunn.

Minnesota scoring—Touchdowns: Jelacic (10 yards, pass from Cox); Lindbloom (15 yard run); Ken Schultz (3 yards, pass from Larson); Borstad (6 yards run); Blakely (5 yard run and 6 yard run); Reese (2 yard plunge). Conversions: Blakely 3, Borstad 1.

Friday Night Scores

DECATUR—The visiting Jacksonville High School Crimsonss spoiled Lakeview's homecoming here Friday night by whitewashing the Lakeview Spartans, 43-0, in a Central Conference affair.

The victory for the Crimsonss was their third straight shutout of the season and it extended Jacksonville's winning streak to 14 consecutive triumphs.

The defeat marked the second of the season for Everett Lakeview's Spartans in three starts.

Once again it was Jacksonville's running attack that proved fatal to the opposition. The Crimsonss gained 352 yards rushing while holding the Spartans to 139 yards.

Fumbles and penalties plagued the Spartans throughout the conference contest. Lakeview was penalized 70 yards and the elusive pigskin fell out of its possession eight times.

The Spartans did, however, beat the Crimsonss in two departments. They gained 13 first downs while the Jacks collected nine but seven Jacksonville touchdowns proved the decisive factor. The losers attempted six passes and connected on four for a total gain of 27 yards. The winners tried seven aerial tosses, completed two for only eight yards.

Jacksonville lost 30 yards via penalties and gave up possession of the ball three times due to fumbles.

Actually, the first half told the whole story. The Crimsonss used 15 plays to score five touchdowns and a 31-0 lead at halftime. For the ball game here's some of the yardage gained by four of Jacksonville's explosive backs. Bruner had 48, Ned "Hurricane" Jackson netted 103. Dave Fortado lugged the ball 81 yards and Bobby Watts earned 95 yards.

1st Quarter Romp
Jacksonville's scoring parade all started when Ned Jackson capped a 64 yard march with a 14 yard TD run. It took the Jacks eight plays to punch across for their first six points. A conversion attempt by McPike was no good.

Following McPike's ensuing kick, JHS tackle Gary Brockhouse recovered a Lakeview fumble on the 38 and Ned Jackson struck with the force of lightning. Ned's first carry netted 36 yards and his second covered the two remaining yards for a 12-0 margin. McPike's kick for the PAT again was off its intended mark.

Jacksonville gained possession of the ball following a Jacksonville punt and put the ball in play on Lakeview's 46. Halfback Dave Fortado scampered 34 yards to the 12 and on the next running play, fullback Charlie Bruner bulldozed his way over from the 12 to JHS' third tally of the initial frame. McPike converted his only extra point of the evening and Jacksonville was on its merry way, 19-0.

Two More In 2nd
The Crimsonss had their fifth touchdown in three games called back because of penalties Friday night. What started out to be a quarterback sneak by Mike Scott turned out to be a 58 yard TD gallop but the tally was nullified, illegal pushing. Following the 15-yard setback to their own 27, the Jacks marched downfield in rapid succession to Lakeview's eight yard stripe but their efforts were in vain as they fumbled.

Then it was Lakeview's turn to fumble and the Jacks were back where they left off. A seven yard carry by Mike Hudson and a yard plunge by Bruner picked up Jacksonville's 25th point. McPike's kick for the PAT failed.

In the closing minutes of the first half, Lakeview punted to its own 30. Safety—man Mike Scott let the ball bounce on the 34, gathered the ball in on the run, made a bee-line for the sidelines, picked up his downfield blocking and went into Lakeview's end zone for a 31-0 spread. McPike's PAT attempt was blocked.

Single Tallies
Kraushaar's charges resumed their scoring way in the third frame. Halfback Bobby Watts, in for his first offensive assignment, took a long shovel pass from quarterback Scott and aided by some beautiful downfield blocking scooted 47 yards to hit paydirt. Watts attempted to run for the point after but his bid was stopped by a host of Spartan defenders.

Last year's Central Conference champs threatened to score in the waning minutes of the third quarter but a pass into Lakeview's end zone was batted down. And the Spartans took over.

Following the exchange of fields, to begin the fourth and final period, Lakeview made its only serious threat in the game to be the first team to score against the Jacks this season.

Using short line bucks and several passes, this strategy chewed up 63 yards and put the Spartans on Jacksonville's 19. But the "ole" fumble bug caught up with the Spartans and Jacksonville had stymied Lakeview's only threat.

A short gain by quarterback Merrill Norvell and a 45 yard dash by Bobby Watts moved the ball to the 34 in Lakeview real estate. Halfback Dave Fortado hauled in Norvell's long shovel pass and went into Lakeview's end zone standing up after covering the 34 necessary yards. And that was Jacksonville's final scoring as McPike's conversion missed.

Defensive lineman Mitchell Zachary almost set up another TD for the Crimsonss when he recovered a Lakeview fumble on the Spartan 27. After the Jacks had moved for a first down, they fumbled on the 10 and the final threat had ended.

MEREDOSIA—The Bluffs Bluejays held Meredosia in check for three quarters to gain a 13-6 PMBC Conference decision over the Indians here Friday night.

The victory was the first of the season for the Danhaus crew in three starts. The loss was Meredosia's second of the eight-man campaign to go home with one triumph.

After a scoreless first quarter, Bluffs added its first tally on a one-yard quarterback sneak by Hutton.

The Bluejays added an insurance tally in the final quarter on a Hutton to Bob Merer pass that covered two yards. Beddingfield ran for the point after and Bluffs was ahead to stay, 13-0.

David Cooper's Indians capped a 75 yard drive in the closing minutes of the game on a 12-yard end run by Hall.

With the first three quarters of the game uneventful, Winchester's Sutton made an 11 yard end run to paydirt in the early minutes of the fourth quarter. Hurley and Harmon of Hardin labored in vain to try and outmaneuver Virginia but the Redbirds conquered them in the third and fourth quarters.

Both teams worked hard to strike paydirt but Virginia seemed to have had the upper-hand throughout this gridiron event.

Havana 34 Rushville 0

HAVANA—Ken Weeks' Havana Ducks established a new school record Friday night by trouncing visiting Rushville, 34-0, in a Mid-West Conference game.

A record that had stood 22 years at Havana High was broken as a result of Havana's Friday night triumph. The victory was the ninth straight on the home gridiron over a three-year span.

The easy victory pushed Havana's win column to two straight this season with a loss. The lopsided defeat left Rushville winless in three starts.

A one yard plunge by Jerry Keith gave the Ducks' first tally and a run by Jerry Behrend was successful for the point after.

Havana's second TD in the initial period of play came on a five-yard run by Jon Hall and Jerry Keith added the PAT and the Ducks led, 14-0.

In the second quarter, a 28 yard scamper by Byron Keith, an extra point by Don Lawrence, and a 35-yard TD pass interception by Jon Hall increased Havana's lead at halftime, 27-0.

Butch Lowe started things off with a bang for Havana at the start of the third frame as he returned the opening kickoff 65 yards for six more points. Jerry Keith added the point after for Havana's 34th and final marker of the game.

UCLA Celebrates 16-6 Victory Over Illinois

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA and its coach, Henry R. (Red) Sanders, celebrated their first victory over Illinois Saturday, but it may be just as soon as the Bruins don't have to meet the Illini next week.

UCLA made the breaks and took advantage of them in the first two periods to build a 16-0 halftime lead before 48,714 fans Friday night in Memorial Coliseum.

Illinois got stronger as the game progressed but the best the Midwesterners could do scorewise was one touchdown. The final: 16-6.

Three times in past years—once in the Rose Bowl in 1947 before Sanders came to UCLA—the Bruins of the Pacific Coast Conference had failed to whip Ray Eliot's Big Ten eleven.

On the statistical side, Illinois had a 172-143 edge in yards gained on the ground, and 117-77 in the air.

But a fumble that led to one touchdown, a blocked kick that produced another, along with a few interceptions, spelled defeat for the Illini.

West Virginia Blanks Virginia Tech, 14-0

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—The West Virginia Mountaineers displaying a tight defense throttled Virginia Tech 14-0 Saturday for their 22nd consecutive Southern Conference football victory.

The Mountaineers stuck to the ground for both touchdowns. They capitalized on a poor Tech punt in the second period and moved 34 yards in six plays for the first score, with fullback Larry Krutko running over from the 10.

West Virginia's second TD came in the fourth quarter after guard Bob Guenther recovered a Tech fumble on his own 45.

Iowa State Manages 7-7 Tie With Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Iowa State scored a mild upset Saturday as the Cyclones came from behind, held off a last period scoring threat, and held highly regarded Syracuse to a 7-7 tie.

The passing and running of sophomore Dwight Nichols, a 23-year-old service veteran from Knoxville, Iowa, provided the spark the Iowans needed to knot the defending champions of eastern football.

A crowd estimated at 21,000 saw the 168-pound halfback lead his mates in an uphill battle with sparkling runs and needle-sharp passing.

Syracuse's touchdown and conversion came late in the third period after a 70-yard drive.

Less than three minutes had passed in the final period when Nichols unleashed his fine passing arm.

He hit Jim Stuelke with gains of 13 and 12 yards on successive plays and then passed to Dennis who took the ball on the 2 and stepped into the end zone.

Army Attack Bogs Nebraska Down, 42-0

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Dave Bourland and Bob Anderson paced a smooth running Army football team to victory Saturday over Nebraska 42-0.

Anderson, a 200-pound sophomore, looked particularly impressive in the brief time he was in the game. He scored Army's first touchdown of the game in two minutes and 20 seconds on a 6-yard plunge after he had put the ball in scoring position with a 27-yard dash around right end.

Another sophomore, 158-pound Bennie Dillard, was the unexpected star for Nebraska. He made the longest run of the day for his team, 25 yards, and in the second period swept Army's end for 12 and what appeared to be a touchdown only to have the play called back for offside.

Army used four teams in the free wheeling contest, and the scoring was widely distributed.

Badgers Clobber Marquette, 60-6

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A fast moving Wisconsin football team smothered an inept Marquette eleven, 60-6, in the Badgers' first game of the season Saturday before 47,267 at Camp Randall Stadium.

It was hardly a contest as the Badgers ran up a 33-0 lead in the first half and then sent in the national team on the bench to continue the slaughter. It was the largest Wisconsin has run up since 1916's 85-0 debacle, and the most points the Badgers had scored since 1920 when they beat Lawrence College 60-0.

Syracuse University began the 1957 football campaign with 348 wins, 219 losses and 42 ties.

Fred Haney Proved He Didn't Have Complex Of A Loser This Year

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Fred Haney, scrappy, little manager of the National League champion Milwaukee Braves, shook off a reputation this season.

He proved for one thing that he doesn't have the complex of a loser, as was suspected because of his long association with losing ball clubs.

And he proved he isn't hidebound by a close-to-the-vest approach to the game, as had been suspected following the Braves' blowup of a year ago.

At least, that's the opinion of baseball men who have watched the Braves since Haney took over as manager from the deceased Charley Grimm on June 17, 1956.

Haney himself doesn't agree. He feels he hasn't changed. His personnel, he insists, is different and thus enabled him to call the signals differently.

"I was conservative, if you want to use that word, last year because of my personnel," he said Sunday in his private office in County Stadium. "I like a running ball club, but without (Billy) Bruton in there show me a man who has a 50 per cent chance of stealing a base."

"It's what you do with the personnel you have," Haney continued. "A lot of people don't realize that a manager eats and sleeps with his guys nine months a year. He gets to know each one and what he can do. He's got to go with what he's capable of doing."

A year ago the 50-year-old gamecock, who before replacing Grimm, never had finished higher than sixth place in six years as a manager, was described as bunt his methods.

Perhaps as Haney maintains, his personnel did allow him more freedom of decision, or perhaps, as some veteran baseball observers say, Haney was wise enough to change his thinking and alter his methods.

National Football League Opens Today; Favor Bears, Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League opens its 1957 season on six fronts Sunday with the Chicago Bears and the New York Giants favored to win divisional tilts and win the championship game for the second straight year.

Opening games find the Bears at Green Bay, New York at Cleveland, the Chicago Cardinals at San Francisco, Detroit at Baltimore, Philadelphia at Los Angeles and Washington at Pittsburgh. In all, 72 games will be played through Dec. 22.

Commissioner Bert Bell, who will attend the Bears-Green Bay game dedicating the new Packers stadium, predicts his league will set a new attendance record for the sixth straight year. In 1956, 2,551,263 paid spectators attended NFL games.

Television viewers from Maine to Seattle, Wash., will see more live NFL games than ever before. In all, 63 games will be telecast to some 75 cities. An estimated 1,200,000 have been paid to NFL teams for TV rights.

Routt Trims Petersburg, 20-0, Illinois College Bows, 14-0

Rockets Gain 11-Man Win Over Petersburg For 2nd Victory, 20-0

Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets punched across single tallies in the second, third and fourth quarters to blank visiting Petersburg Saturday night at the JHS athletic field, 20-0.

Saturday night's victory was sweet revenge for the Rockets, who bowed to the Bluejays last season, 33-0. Last night's win also boosted Routt's win column to two triumphs in three starts. The defeat marked the third straight time this season that Petersburg has been shutout.

Although the Rockets were out-weighted man per man, the smallest Routt players were the aggressors. The outcharged Petersburg on offense and defense. Petersburg failed to get inside of Routt's 25 yard line as its offensive unit was stymied by the Rockets.

The two teams merely went through their paces in the initial period with neither team representing a serious threat. The Bluejays and Rockets bumped heads for a quarter and a half before Routt got its offense clicking.

In the waning minutes of the second period Routt gained possession of the ball on their own 44 after Petersburg had been forced to punt. The Rockets capped a 56 yard drive on a flat pass from quarterback Mickey Walker to halfback Denny Lewis covering 12 yards. The score stood 6-0 Routt's favor when a PAT attempt was halted.

After the teams had taken the field following the intermission, Rocket halfback John Fitzpatrick hauled in a Petersburg punt on his own 20 and returned the pigskin to Petersburg's 19, a 61 yard punt return to set up Routt's second score. Several running plays put the Rockets on the four from where fullback Irvin Todd smashed over on an off-tackle slant. Fitzpatrick's boot for the point after was good and Winstead's crew was on top, 13-0.

SMU Holds Georgia Tech To Scoreless Tie

ATLANTA (AP)—Underdog Southern Methodist, using the talented toe of fullback Joe Sherr, held favored Georgia Tech to a scoreless tie Saturday in an intercollegiate game played in a steady rain.

Sherr punted the Mustangs out of danger and kept Georgia Tech bottled up during most of the slug-fest match before a water-logged crowd of about 3,000.

Tech, ranked third nationally in the Associated Press poll, moved to the SMU's 6 late in the third quarter and to the 2 in the final period. But fumbles halted the first drive and on the second sophomore halfback Cal James dropped a fourth down pass from quarterback Fred Braselton in the end zone.

Southern Methodist showed almost no offense. The Mustangs finally registered their first down midway in the third quarter. Except for a 26-yard scamper by halfback Frank Smith in the fourth period, the Texans' gains were mostly of the two and three yard variety.

Vanderbilt Wins Over Georgia, 9-6

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—End Bob Taylor blocked a punt for a Vanderbilt safety. Boyce Smith's passing brought a touchdown two minutes later and the Commodores made it stand up for a 9-6 football victory over Georgia Saturday.

Georgia narrowed the margin with a touchdown midway in the fourth period and later tried for a tie with a field goal. But Ken Cooper's kick, with 3 minutes 55 seconds left, was short and wide from the 16. The desperate Bulldogs were passing furiously at the end but the clock ran out with the ball on Vanderbilt's 15.

Fullback Theron Sapp got Georgia's touchdown in four carries after Bulldog tackle Riley Gunnels nabbed a Smith fumble at the Vandy 12.

Bloop Single Spoils Klippstein's No-Hit Bid, Cincy Wins, 6-0

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bob Hurricane Hazle looped a lazy fly ball single into short field with two out in the eighth inning Saturday to deprive Johnny Klippstein of a no-hitter, as the Cincinnati Reds legs shut out the Milwaukee Braves 6-0.

Klippstein, who has completed only two of his 17 previous starts this season and brought a 5.39 earned run average into the game, permitted only one other man to reach base as he befuddled the National League champions with an assortment of curves, fast balls and sliders. That was in the

Faced with a fourth down situation deep in Rocket territory in the final four minutes of the contest, the Bluejays went into punt formation. But, instead they gambled and elected to try a short pass from the formation to gain the necessary yardage for a first down. This plan backfired as Rocket defender Larry Sellers cut in front of the intended receiver on Petersburg's 40 and juggled the ball to its two yard stripe.

A one yard carry by Walker and Todd's carry on the next play covered the remaining distance to Petersburg's goal line. Fitzpatrick added Routt's 20th point by splitting the uprights on the point after touchdown.

Outstanding defensive performances for the Rockets was the line play of Tom Regan, Jerry Cosgriff, Jerry Bonjean and Harry Coop. The passing of Walker and the running by Todd, Fitzpatrick, Lewis and Sellers enabled the Rockets to capture the 11-man decision, their first and last 11-man encounter this season.

Routt picked up nine first downs while Petersburg could muster only three. In the rushing department, most of Routt's yardage gained was chewed up by penalties but they managed to net 66 yards. The Bluejays had 73 yards rushing. The Rockets had 85 yards marked off against them in penalties while they accepted 40 yards against the losers.

Walker tried six passes, completed four for a total of 44 yards. The Winstead crew fumbled four times and recovered three of them. Coach Elmo Hilderbrand's eleven fumbled four times also but recovered only one of them.

Michigan Checks California, 16-6

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Favored Michigan ran into fired up Southern California Saturday but gained momentum in the second half and won its first game of the new season 16-6.

Michigan's fast, hard-hitting array of backs, including quarterback Jim Van Pelt and halfbacks Jim Pace, Mike Shatusky and Bradley Myers, packed too much talent for the senior-less Trojans. The Wolverines from the Big Ten got off to a 6-0 lead in the second quarter on a 51-yard touchdown march and a safety.

But Southern Cal, with a sensational run and lateral by fourth string halfback Rex Johnston to reserve Bill Howard went for 41 yards and 6 points.

At the half Michigan held a slim 9-6 lead. But Michigan got down to work and sewed up the game, for all intents, with a 63-yard touchdown thrust in the third quarter.

The Johnston-Howard touchdown play was the big thrill for USC in the second quarter. Johnston got loose from several tacklers as he plowed, stumbled and fought his way to the four. There he ran into Jim Dickey, Michigan center. Johnston flipped the ball back to Howard and he went on over.

Late in the second, on the Trojan 33, Van Pelt was hard hit, the ball plopped into the air and 207-pound tackle Rod Humenuik of USC grabbed it and started off touchdown bound. Pace nailed him about the Michigan 25, but the referee ruled the whistle had sounded before the fumble.

Michigan 9 7 0—16
USC 0 0 0—6

Michigan scoring—Touchdowns: Pace (1, plunge); Myers (4, plunge); Conversions: Van Pelt, Noskin. Safety: Conroy, USC (tackled in end zone by Callahan). USC scoring 8 touchdowns: Howard (41, run, lateral from Johnston).

Indians Score 4 In 8th To Beat Pierce, Sox, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland Indians scored four runs in the eighth inning Saturday to defeat the Chicago White Sox 4 to 1, and spoil left-hander Billy Pierce's bid for his 21st victory of the year.

The Chicago star was tagged with his 12th defeat when Al Smith barged a bases-loaded triple in the big eighth. A pinch single by Chico Carraquel, Bobby Avila's dribbling hit in front of the plate and a walk to Dick Williams set the stage for Smith's payoff liner. Smith came home on Wertz's single.

Most of the records are of the "rock and roll" variety with a few other selections thrown in. The night before Jacksonville's opening game with Pittsfield, I thought I heard music as I approached the fieldhouse to receive the probable starting lineup from the Crimson mentors. Sure enough, as I opened the door, the first thing I heard was "Searching, searching yay yay" and there were the players wiggling into their jerseys and all the while keeping in time to the music with their cleats on the cement.

After you're there awhile, the noise and blare of the phonograph (the players turn it up as high as it'll go) begins to get on your nerves. The coaches tire of the blare also but they claim the kids like it and that's all that matters. The music tends to relax the players and take their minds off the game until they get on the gridiron. If music can bring three straight shutout victories, maybe the "Mood in Music for Football" can carry them through six more contests.

Usually I have no reason to find any fault with a story or column another sports scribe may write because he's expressing what he personally feels. But I think Howard White's Highlights in Sports column that appeared in the Jacksonville Democrat News on September 19 was way out of line. It sounded as though he was just flapping his gums about something he knew nothing of. A lot of times, a sports writer has to use different adjectives to describe the score and many times he doesn't mean a thing by it. The fact that White used the term, Jacksonville poured it on Pittsfield, 52-0, meant nothing to us until we got to exploring his column further.

Cubs Rally In 8th To Set Cards Down, 6-4

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Chicago Cubs—straining to avoid finishing last for the second year in a row—rallied for five runs in the eighth inning Saturday night and beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-4.

The victory elevated the Cubs into a seventh-place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates with one day's play left.

The big blows in the five run cluster were pinch hitter Bob Will's single, worth two RBIs and Walt Morry's two-run double. Willard Schmidt, no 10-3, lost. Dave Hillman, now 6-11 relieved starter Bob Rush, who gave up three runs in the first, and was the winning pitcher. Hillman needed eighth inning aid from Don Elston.

I don't know who Matt Dwyer is but first of all, White leaves himself wide open for comment. He doesn't exactly imply that Jacksonville didn't substitute but he feels that coach Jerkanin would rather give all his players on the bench a chance to play instead of running up a large score whereas the Jacksonville mentors don't. Mr. White doesn't know the true picture or he wouldn't have insinuated the statement in his article.

Here's Jacksonville's side of the picture. First of all, 40 Crimsons dressed for the Pittsfield game. Not counting the starting eleven, 29 players were substituted into the lineup. In other words, the 40-man traveling squad saw action with the substituting starting in the first quarter. Almost every reserve saw enough action to earn a school letter. The Crimsons also used a 40-man squad against Macomb. In Friday night's game with Lakeview, a 33-player roster saw action against the Spartans. In three games, not counting the starting lineup for each game, a total of 80 reserves has seen plenty of action for the Crimsons.

Here's one good example of a player wanting to see action but can't. Fullback Charlie Bruner, one of the most outstanding fullbacks to ever don Crimson pads, sees only limited duties because Jacksonville does try to keep from running up a large score. Now, Charlie has worked four hard years to make a varsity back and when it comes game time, he only gets to play in that game about a half. That's the way it's been so far this season but actually, is it fair to Bruner? He's out to play the sport and loves it but is penalized with bench duty along with his teammates for doing too good of a job.

This substitution business is a far cry from the almost direct accusation made by Mr. White. Far from your belief Mr. White, the Jacksonville subs run freely. I won't say that they will in the game with Jerseyville because thanks to your own beliefs, you've gotten the Crimsons up for this one encounter. I won't even go so far as to say Jacksonville does have a powerhouse this season but I'll bet my last buck that the Panthers will know they've been in a ball game, win or lose.

I have no hard feelings against Howard White because he's making a living doing the same thing I do. That is, tooting your own horn for the local team or teams. Why, I've even heard several local fans say that the attendance for JHS home games is going to fall off if they don't quit running up such high scores. Now you fans that feel that way have your own beliefs but after reading the above information, you should be able to understand the situation and after all, the cheerleaders and managers aren't on the eligibility roster and therefore can't suit in game uniforms.

Briefly, I think the success the Crimsons have had so far this season is the fact that they have eight backfield men, capable of exploding on any given play for a TD whereas last year, the Jacks had three or four touchdown threats. Line coach Al Rosenberger also has come up with another outstanding offensive and defensive forward wall for the Kraushaar backs. And without that line, the backs don't move very well. Another prime factor is in the quarterbacking. Mike Scott has come on to do a beautiful job at the controls and when he's out, he's capably relieved by Merritt Norvell. Besides being able to do the job when Scott's out, Norvell is also a serious threat in the scoring department whether it's returning a punt or running out a bootleg play. Some fans will argue the point that this year's team is better than last season's undefeated Crimsons. I'll let you discuss this point all you want because right now I don't care to compare. This season isn't over yet!

EUREKA—Eureka's Red Devils celebrated its annual pumpkin festival here Saturday night with a 14-0 victory over the visiting Illinois College Blueboys.

The contest was Eureka's first outing this season and it proved to be a successful one. The Blueboys shaded Eureka last season, 13-12, but it was the Red Devils who held the upper hand Saturday night.

A 29 yard touchdown pass in the third quarter that capped a 71 yard drive and a two-yard quarterback sneak in the fourth quarter by Eureka was the all scoring for the evening. The Red Devils scored both points after touchdowns to make it 14-0.

The Blueboys had a sustained 65 yard drive for the evening which was their best offensive output. The losers had marched to within six yards of paydirt only to have Eureka's defense dig in and halt their scoring threat.

The Red Devils checked Illinois College for 48 yards rushing. Quarterback Willie Haas turned in a sterling job of aerial artistry as he completed seven of 19 tosses for a total of 17 yards for the Blueboys. Bob Hembrough was where he lateraled to end Wayne McKee as he was hit. McKee went five more and tossed the ball back to fullback Dig Dagampat, who raced the last 15 yards untouched.

Eureka threatened to score in the first quarter when it moved to I.C.'s three yard stripe with a first down and goal to go. A defensive stand by the Blueboys within the shadows of their own goal posts held Eureka in check for four downs without a score.

Killabrew, Eureka's quarterback, was the big thorn in I.C.'s side all evening. The field general was their leading ground gainer and completed 10 of 19 passes, good for 139 yards.

Navy Breezes To 33-6 Triumph

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Halfbacks Harry Hurst and Ned Oldham biased William and Mary's defenses apart with long runs Saturday and quarterback Tom Forrestal tossed in some pinpoint passing as Navy breezed to a 33-6 football victory.

Hurst turned in touchdown runs of 17 and 36 yards among his 137 yards rushing. Oldham rolled up 103 yards, including a 37-yard sprint around right end that turned into Navy's second touchdown after a double lateral. He scored another on a 16-yard sweep.

Between them, the starting halfbacks accounted for more than half of Navy's ground yardage. Forrestal kept the reeling Indians busy with passes, completing 11 of 23 for 155 yards.

The most spectacular play, covering 57 yards, came late in the second period, with Navy leading 7-6. Oldham went around his right end for 37 yards to the Navy 20, I.C.'s outstanding workhorse on defense, handling most of the defensive tackles.

Eureka threatened to score in the first quarter when it moved to I.C.'s three yard stripe with a first down and goal to go. A defensive stand by the Blueboys within the shadows of their own goal posts held Eureka in check for four downs without a score.

Auburn Halts Tennessee, 7-0

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Auburn's massive line shackled favored Tennessee on the ground and sprung its own backs loose for repeated gains Saturday as the Tigers defeated the Volunteers 7-0 in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Tennessee, defending conference champions, was a one-touchdown favorite. But Auburn, smarting from a humiliating 7-3 lacing by the Vols last season, got revenge convincingly.

The Tigers, with their line opening gaping holes in the Tennessee forewall, smashed 57 yards in 16 plays for its touchdown in the second period. Fullback Billy Atkins plunged from the one and added the extra point.

So devastating was the Tiger defense that they held Tennessee to only one first down and a net of 24 yards in the first half.

Al Harrington missed the conversion.

That 6-0 lead held at halftime as Northwestern drew eight penalties of 15 yards each for such infractions as personal fouls, illegal use of the hands, holding and illegal substitution. Twice the penalties stopped potential scoring drives—at the Stanford 16 and 10 yard lines.

Midway in the third period the Indians rolled to their second touchdown, a drive of 41 yards in 9 plays with unheralded runners Roy Stephen and Chuck Shea carrying the load. Shea powered over from the 20 and Jack Taylor converted.

Favorites won 33 per cent of the races during the Monmouth Park thoroughbred meeting. Of the 414 races, 138 favorites finished first.

Hawkeyes Have Busy Afternoon In Beating Utah State, 70-14

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Iowa, a mass of muscle and speed, smashed Utah State 70-14 Saturday in the most congested scoring orgy for an Iowa football team since 1914.

It was the busiest point-making for Iowa since the Hawks routed Iowa State Teachers 95-0 some 43 years ago.

Off to a slow start for a 7-0 first quarter lead, the defending Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions soon swung into full stride. Iowa got 20 points each in the second and third periods and finished with a 3-point flourish.

Iowa got a solid performance from its returning veterans and also came up with potential new star in Geno Sessi, a 5-8 sophomore halfback from St. Clairsville, Ohio. The stocky youngster scored touchdowns on the three times he handled the ball. He raced 36 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter on his first collegiate run. In the third period, he went 15 yards after catching a pass and in the fourth quarter rammed 80 yards on a pass-run field maneuvering.

Sessi's three touchdowns tied the Iowa single game record established for the first time by the late All-America Nile Kinnick in 1939.

minutes of the third period. End Chico Mendoza recovered a Galen Cisno fumble on the Buckeye 31 and the Frogs needed only five plays to hit paydirt. Jack Spikes, huge fullback, broke over left guard for the final 16 and the winning marker.

Ohio had two great chances after that, but the Texans halted one drive on the five, taking the ball on downs, and in the closing minutes recovered a Buckeye fumble on the 20 after the Ohioans had moved 26 yards in four plays to that point.

It was Ohio's third opening game loss since 1864. Texas Christian opened last week with a 13-13 deadlock with Kansas.

Texas Christian scoring—touchdowns: Lassiter (7, run); Shofner (90, punt return); Spikes (16, run). Ohio State scoring—touchdowns: Lebeau (2, run); Clark (2, plunge). Conversions: Sutherland 2.

Coroner E. O. Sample conducted an inquest into the death of Robert "Paul" Hacker at the Williamson funeral home at 4:30 p.m. Saturday. He died at Passavant Hospital at 10:10 a.m. Saturday following fatal injuries at the Kordite plant Friday.

Witnesses at the inquest brought out the fact that the pole on which Hacker met his fatal injuries had rotted nearly in two, below ground level, with only about 12 to 18 inches of "good" pole holding. The verdict of the jury was accidental death caused by a severe skull fracture and deep lacerations about the head.

Winchester School Receives High Standard Of Education Certificate

WINCHESTER—At the "Get Acquainted" meeting which began the year's PTA meetings of the Winchester Elementary School, I. L. Use Helicopter In Search For Joliet Woman

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Joliet police look to the use of a helicopter Saturday in the search for Miss Angela J. Zelko, woman newspaper executive missing since Wednesday.

Police said the copter hovered over ravines and quarries without reporting anything that might aid the investigation.

Miss Zelko, secretary-treasurer of the weekly Joliet Spectator, left her office shortly before midnight Wednesday. Police said neighbors heard screams near her apartment about midnight.

Capt. John Dillon, who heads an investigation of Miss Zelko's disappearance, said police have not determined whether the woman was kidnapped. "She's still listed as a missing person," he said.

Miss Zelko, a major stockholder of the Spectator, also was a writer of several articles a year ago against pinball machines and gambling in Will County. But Dillon discounted a theory that the paper's campaign against gambling had any connection with her disappearance.

Police said Miss Zelko may have been wearing jewelry worth about $7,000 the night she vanished. They said a 17-carat diamond ring valued at $37,000 was found among her possessions.

The ring was left with a friend, C. H. Peterson, printing company executive and chairman of the Will County Republican Central Committee. He told police Miss Zelko left it with him when she entered a hospital with a cold last month.

Nine years ago, the Spectator's chief stockholder, William B. McCabe, was beaten with spiked clubs by two men, McCabe, 73, a former state representative and state's attorney of Will County, was hospitalized a year.

Lloyd S. Reid Dies; Former Dry Goods Merchant, Alderman

Lloyd S. Reid, a former business man, alderman, and lifetime resident of this city, died at 4:10 o'clock Saturday morning, following an extended illness.

Mr. Reid was born in Jacksonville on September 14, 1884, the son of John and Julia Williamson Reid. After attending the Franklin and Lafayette public schools, his first permanent work, although he was still a mere boy, was with the firm of Phillips and Osborne. It was in this job that he discovered his first love and ambition, the dry goods business.

He next worked at the Grand Opera House, first as usher, later as stage electrician, then head usher and finally as ticket seller in the box office.

Members of the CSC of the Congressional church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alma Cherry. Following the business session, various contests were played and refreshments were served.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

"Roundup" of the Station herd is more than a month away. At least, for years November has been the month for weaning, herd health checks and vaccinations. This year it was a surprise to see the cattle being driven into the corrals early in September. Inspection revealed that Dr. M. E. Mansfield, Station veterinarian, was only vaccinating the heifer calves against brucellosis and that the regular "roundup" would occur as usual.

Brucellosis Vaccination
Dr. Mansfield explained that this early vaccination was necessary to help avoid what is known as vaccination reaction, or a positive test for brucellosis in the mature animal as a result of vaccination. For a period of time following vaccination, the blood test will be positive for brucellosis. The older the heifer at vaccination, the longer the vaccination reaction persists and the greater the possibility that the blood test will be positive when the heifer matures.

For years the Station herd has been on a brucellosis control program of "test and slaughter" coupled with "calhood vaccination." Under such a program vaccination reactions in mature animals cloud the picture. It is impossible to tell whether or not the positive test is only a vaccination reaction or a true infection of brucellosis. The only action that can be taken is to slaughter all reactors. By vaccinating calves before six months of age, Dr. Mansfield believes that only rarely will a vaccination reaction occur in the mature heifer.

Cattle Sale
On Thursday and Friday, Oct. 3 and 4, the 8th Annual Egyptian Livestock Association Feeder Calf sale will be held at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station. Approximately 2,000 head of southern Illinois produced calves and yearlings bred for meat and feed-lot gains will be offered to the highest bidder. Association producers have, each year, by better breeding and management, improved the product they offer. The Station and the Extension Service cooperate with the Egyptian Livestock Association by providing the weighing and lot facilities as well as by sorting and grading cattle into uniform sale groups.

Work
The big job on the Station today is the making of corn silage. Close behind the blower of the storage chopper as it contours its way along the corn rows is the pasture and small grain seeding crew. Two concrete trench silos are being built, each with about 90-ton capacity. These silos are 68 feet long, 8 feet deep, 8 feet wide at the bottom and 12 feet wide at the top.

4-H Federation Meets Friday In Cass County
VIRGINIA—The 4-H Federation met Friday night, Sept. 20, and discussed some items of 4-H business for the coming year. Among the items of business settled was the allocation of $300 to the 4-H District Camp, as its share of funds for its operation for the coming year.

The Federation also voted to allocate $16 to Ross Bar as part of her expense while visiting in Cass county as an IFYE delegate from India. While in our county, Miss Bar will be the guest of the Vernon Pilger family. All 4-H leaders received a letter in August regarding the completion and return of 1957 4-H Club records. 4-H Club members, who in 1957 were enrolled with 4-H Club projects, in which they plan to continue for 1958, were encouraged to re-enroll in these projects and start keeping records as of September 1, 1957. This year a round, or continuous record, is important if members are to get a true analysis of their project and is also essential for all livestock breeding projects if members with these projects expect to receive State Honor recognition. 4-H members who have completed their 1957 4-H projects and are going to continue with this same project should fill out and return enrollment cards for these projects immediately, if they have not already done so, in order to receive new record books to start keeping records.

May Plant Trees
Order blanks may be obtained by farmers from the Cass County Farm Bureau office, who desire to plant forest trees on their farms. They may place their orders now with the State Nurseries. Seedlings and transplants available include several varieties of evergreens and several hardwood species.

COMMUNICATIONS BLAMED

SCOTT MARKETING CO-OP NOW 10 YEARS OLD

The Scott County Marketing association started buying hogs at the Wabash stockyards in Bluffs on Oct. 1, 1947. It moved to its present location on Route 100, a mile and a half southwest of Bluffs, in 1951.

40,000 Hogs Purchased Last Year

The Scott County Marketing association will observe its 10th birthday anniversary Tuesday. The cooperative began buying hogs at the Wabash yards in Bluffs on Oct. 1, 1947. It has never handled any other type of livestock and last year it bought slightly more than 40,000 head of hogs. These hogs were shipped everywhere, there was a demand for them—from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from provinces in Canada to Mexico.

First Directors
The original directors were Arthur Likes, James Coultas and Floyd Rolf of Winchester, Oscar Merriman of Naples and Floyd Herman of Bluffs. Likes, Rolf and Herman are still on the board, along with Truman Scott and Albert Rutherford, both of Winchester. The company has $11,900 of Class A stock outstanding, and it's all owned by farmers in the trading territory. Thus far the stock has earned 6 per cent interest annually, but no patronage refunds have been made, since the board feels it is simpler to pay close to the market and add the very small operating profits to surplus. The board points to the added expense involved in additional bookkeeping and check-writing in distributing a small percentage of surplus to each patron.

The present manager is George Deterding of Bluffs, who began working for the company on its opening day. He's been with them ever since, with the exception of two years in the army during Korea, and was named manager on Oct. 1, 1955. He is the 6'4" son of Rev. John Deterding, pastor of Neeleyville Trinity Lutheran church, and Mrs. Deterding.

Three Managers
The first manager was Gen. Kerr. In 1949 he left and is now the manager of the Winn-Boone Marketing association of Rockford. Harold Phillips was the manager for the next six years. He's now manager of the Mt. Sterling branch of Midwest Order Buyers, Chapin.

Many of the hogs are sent to market via the Wabash, which recently built a new loading chute at the yards in Bluffs. The rest of the hogs are transported by truck, mainly in semi-trailers operated by John M. Brockhouse and Howard Six of Bluffs.

Ashland To End Daylight Time

ASHLAND—Daylight time in Ashland will end Sunday, Sept. 29, at midnight. Be sure to turn your clock back one hour Sunday before you retire.

Many large cities in Illinois will continue daylight time through October and television and radio programs will continue to be on fast time in most cities except the tri-city area.

Ashland, Ardenville, Virginia and Chantillyville will change over Sunday, Sept. 29, and Beardstown will make the change Monday.

The following members of the Ashland WSCS, attended the district meeting held Tuesday at Winchester: Mrs. Carl Orne, president; Mrs. LeRoy Klein, vice president; Mrs. William Senter, secretary; Mrs. Walter Remerschied, treasurer; Mrs. Annette Lohman and Mrs. Bertha Adkins.

Initiation for the freshmen girls joining the FHA was held Thursday. An assembly was given in the afternoon in honor of the freshmen.

In the evening a wiener roast was held at the home of Mary and Ann Latham, after which the FHAs came to town for a scavenger hunt.

On Oct. 1 George Deterding of Bluffs will begin his third year as manager. He's shown here weighing 20 hogs sent in by Oscar Grimmer of Quincy, who operates a farm a mile to the south. The hogs were hauled in by a John M. Brockhouse truck driven by Donald Merris of Bluffs.

Farm Bureau Studies Proposed Change To Township Government

An objective discussion of the commission form of county government and its counterpart, the township system, was heard Friday evening at Farm Bureau hall by Morgan County Farm Bureau directors, township chairmen and members of Farm Bureau standing committees.

Two specialists in government, one from the I.A.A. department of local government and the other from the Taxpayers Federation of Illinois, agreed that the commission form of county government "has the opportunity to be more efficient" and that the township system, "although more costly, since there are more elected employees, may easily justify the additional expense if it could arouse more interest in local government."

These were the opinions of Albert J. Cross, director of the I.A.A. department of local government, and Maurice W. Scott of Springfield, executive secretary of the Taxpayers Federation.

To Study Question
This was the first of a series of meetings planned by the local Farm Bureau in an attempt to determine positions on the election to be held next November on a proposition to abandon the commission form of county government, which this county has had for 134 years, in favor of the township plan.

Cross said that the Constitution of 1818 provided for the commission form of government only. The Constitution of 1848 stipulated that each county should choose for itself what form of county government it desired. It provided that any 50 citizens could petition for a change and that a simple majority would ratify the petition.

Cross said that if the voters of Morgan county approved the petition this fall the present commissioners would appoint three commissioners to draw up the township boundaries.

"Great Latitude"
The statutes stipulate that the commissioners should form Congressional townships containing 36 square miles, but they also have great latitude so far as population, rivers, natural terrain and other factors are concerned. The township officers would be elected in April, 1958.

Cross estimated that there would be 17 townships in Morgan county. If the city of Jacksonville was placed in a single township, which it probably would be, the new township would be entitled to sit on committees and to vote in sessions. They would be paid $10 per diem, with 10c mileage, as compared with today's three commissioners, who get $15 per diem and 7c mileage.

Rural Control Assured
"No other township, so far as I can see, would have more than one supervisor. This means there would be little chance for the city of Jacksonville to control the county, which it has not been able

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

'57 CROP PRODUCTION NEAR RECORD HIGH

Illinois farmers haven't got it this year, but most farmers in other states have. Total U.S. crop production is officially estimated at 105 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Highest production on record is 106, set in 1948 and equaled in 1955 and again in 1956.

The Illinois corn crop is estimated at 472 million bushels, 21 per cent less than last year. Our state soybean crop is forecast at 120 million bushels, down 11 per cent. Our wheat was estimated at 35 million bushels, off 40 per cent. The Illinois oat crop was set at 105 million bushels, down 27 per cent.

Most other important crop-producing states show better crops this year than in 1956. Iowa and Nebraska have much better crop crops than they had last year. Texas, Kansas and Nebraska have supercolossal crops of sorghum grain. Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska had exceptional crops of oats. Barley production is up sharply in the Northern and Pacific Coast states. Production of soybeans has increased more than enough in Iowa to offset the cut in Illinois.

Corn Crop Smaller
The 1957 U.S. corn crop is estimated at 3.2 billion bushels, 7 per cent less than last year. All other feed crops, however, are greater than last year.

Oat production is estimated at 1 1/3 billion bushels, 16 per cent more than in 1956. Output of barley is figured at 430 million bushels, also up 16 per cent. The outpouring of sorghum grains is expected to total around 480 million bushels, or nearly double the previous record crop produced two years ago.

Total production of the four feed grains is figured at about 135 million tons, 4 per cent greater than last year. This production, together with a record carry-over of old corn, seems to assure relatively low feed prices for at least another year.

More Soybeans
The soybean crop is forecast at 459 million bushels. This is about 1 per cent more than the official estimate of the record 1956 crop made last December. We think, however, that the final official estimates of that 1956 crop, to be released in December, will be 3 to 5 per cent smaller than the preliminary estimate made last December. Thus the present forecast of the 1957 soybean crop may be about 6 per cent larger than actual production last year.

While actual production of soybeans may be at a new record high this year, the increase over the previous year may be the smallest since 1953.

The drought in the southern Great Plains, reportedly broken last spring, was only bent. Rainfall over most of Texas during June, July and August was 25 to 50 per cent below normal. Rains early in September brought temporary relief. Late summer drought also cut pasture growth in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and eastern Colorado and New Mexico.

Worst drought this summer was in the East, where severe and extreme drought prevailed over an area about three times as large as Illinois. The eastern drought covered important dairy areas. Shortages of feed in those areas will increase their demand for feed from the Corn Belt.

FARM FAMILIES SPEND LESS TIME VIEWING TV NOW

Farm families are becoming more selective and they are spending less time with their TV sets, a U.I. rural sociologist reports. D. E. Lindstrom cites a 1956 study showing that about two-thirds of the members of families owning TV sets watch the programs for a little more than two hours during an average week-evening.

The trend now is toward more selective viewing and viewing time is decreasing. This trend indicates people are not so tied to their TV sets as they were a year or so ago. With the newness wearing off, Lindstrom feels that television may take its place side by side with the movies as an entertainment.

WILL YOU BE ABLE TO PICK CORN IN '58?

URBANA—Before long, thousands of Illinois farmers are going to hitch their tractors to corn-pickers and start down the rows to harvest an estimated 472 million bushel corn crop.

Unfortunately, some human fingers, hands, arms and even legs may get mixed into this bumper crop of corn, says O. L. Hogsett, extension safety specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. Just how many, no one knows.

Some folks will finish picking early and without mishap. Others will be less fortunate, and a few may never see their corn in the crib. What happens to you will depend on how carefully you operate your picker.

Records show that a few will get tangled up in the power take-off, but most of the injuries will involve the snapping and husking rolls. The rolls get plugged. Mr. Farmer gets off the tractor, leaves the machine running and tries to unplug the rolls. How many times he can do this without getting hurt is a question.

"Are the minutes you are trying to save by leaving your picker running worth the chance you are taking? Have you ever put a price on your hands, arms or legs? Have you ever thought how you would like to spend the rest of your life without one of them?" Hogsett asks.

"Stop that picker before you attempt to unclog, grease or adjust it."

State Of Oratory

With the first stirrings of the 1958 campaigns just a few months off, it seems fair to note that there are many complaints nowadays about the low state of political oratory.

Criticism in this field involves some delicate problems. We're not supposed to be electing actors, TV personalities, or polished speechmakers as such. Basically we seek men with a knowledge of practical affairs, and a talent for shaping them to the country's benefit.

Nevertheless, our representatives in government are not only accountable to us but they need our support and understanding if they are to perform well.

That means they have an obligation to report to us what they have done, what they will do, or both. And we have a right to hear this not simply when they are seeking office, but when they are actually serving.

Now no one says that our public servants, with certain exceptions, do not talk enough. The complaint is that most of them don't talk well.

We've heard a lot in recent years about how the advertising agencies are busy "selling" political candidates. The boys wear the right kind of glasses, put on blue shirts for television, let some of the wind out of their speeches.

Cold Comfort

The news from Johns Hopkins that Dr. Winston H. Price has come up with the first successful vaccine against one of the principal viruses causing the common cold deserves to be hailed widely—and it will be.

In tests this particular vaccine was effective in 80 per cent of the cases where inoculations were made. But the virus in question is only one of many responsible for colds. It accounts for perhaps 30 per cent of such afflictions.

Amid the cheering, however, a few sad notes will be struck. When the common cold begins to go, along with it will go the best copper-riveted ex-

They even practice diction.

That's all to the good. But the trouble, according to the complainants, is content, not form. The candidates talk in weary, tattered slogans. Their posturings are stale. And most of the phrases they utter are unbelievably dull.

When they do try to liven up their spiel with "smart" phrases, too often the words sound contrived. You can just hear the speech doctor behind the candidate saying, "That'll get the headlines."

Real command of the English language ought to be standard equipment in politics. Unhappily it isn't, and probably it never will be for many run-of-mine politicians who lack the imagination to turn a phrase.

Just the same, there isn't much excuse for such failure at the higher levels of government. Communication with the people is a vital part of the public servant's job. Too many men now guiding our lives talk about the most urgent issues as if they were reading junk mail aloud.

The day may come when high public servants will be sharply penalized by the listening citizenry for their indifference to language. Quite a few people are ready right now to say they will deserve the penalty.

So They Say

Women don't simply laugh. They're inhibited. The laugh is caught somewhere in their throats. They're afraid to laugh harder because their lipstick might run or their mascara might smear.

Happiness is a mental attitude. I realize I could die at any moment, but I never think of the almanac. I think young... and I'll die young. But I respect myself and I don't conduct myself like a schoolboy.

He (the devil) doesn't wear a sign saying "watch out." —Evangelist Billy Graham.

TOP PRODUCERS MAY COMBINE

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of Broadway's best-known producing duo may combine talents on a musical comedy for next season.

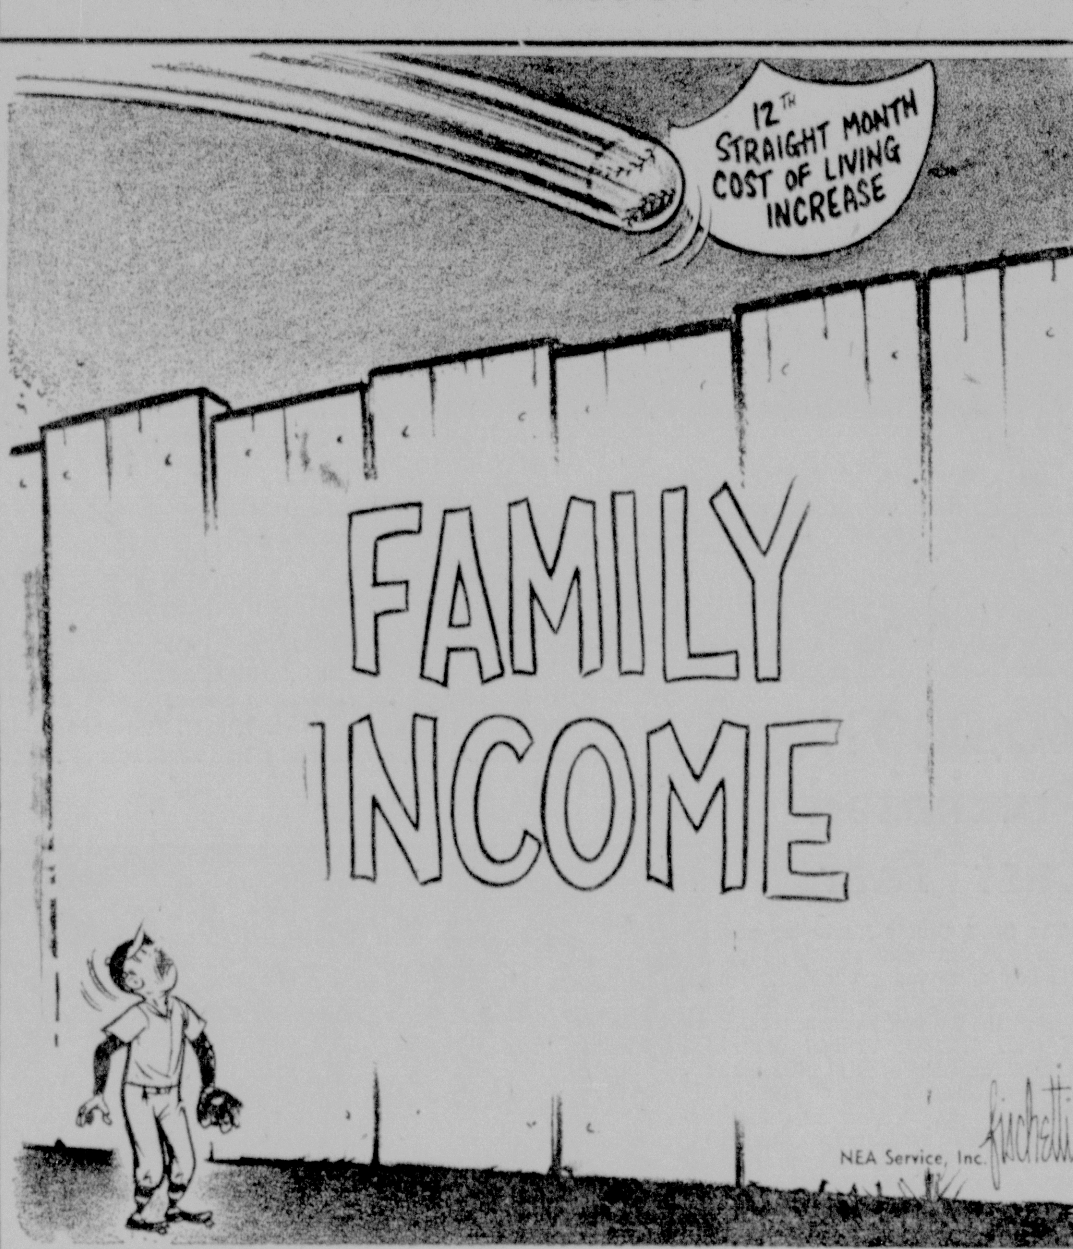

Cy Feuer and Ernie Martin, impresarios of five successive hits, have approached Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II in connection with doing the melodies and lyrics for a show tentatively entitled "Skyscraper."

The plot concerns a woman who refuses to sell her small property for inclusion in one of Gotham's vast new building projects.

Feuer and Martin, whose successes include "Guys and Dolls" and "Silk Stockings," were previously associated with Rodgers and Hammerstein as silent partners in the latter's production of their own opus, "Pipe Dream."

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Wiley Buchanan, chief of protocol at the State Department, can quote volumes of the social do's and don'ts necessary for the promotion of good international relations.

But before long, he's liable to become an expert on another set of rules.

Buchanan is expected to get the job of explaining football to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they attend the Maryland-North Carolina game.

It's believed his assistance on the projects will be Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and University of Maryland President Wilson H. Elkins.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) has learned it doesn't pay to put off taking a vacation.

Since the beginning of summer, he has looked forward to joining his wife and children in Florida for several weeks of lazy living.

But when Congress finally adjourned, it was time for his kids to come back to Washington and get ready for school.

So Smathers decided to stay in his office and finish up a little back work before taking it easy for a while. But the between-sessions workload didn't drop off as he expected. Every day Smathers was astonished to see fresh stacks of mail piled on his desk.

When he finally waded through all the letters, it was time to start writing a multitude of speeches. He finished the last one just before boarding a plane for his annual whirlwind tour of Florida.

Friends say the senator hopes to take a breather at Christmas. But he's not getting his hopes too high.

Three Top Officials of the National Press Club were surprised the other day to receive an invitation to luncheon at the Soviet embassy.

Since the Russians have never been famous for wanting to talk to the press, the three newsmen were anxious to see what was up. Upon arriving, they were met by three smiling Soviet diplomats who graciously ushered them into the dining room.

Vodka was served, followed by a delicious meal of steak, eggs, baked Alaska, coffee and a distilled fruit juice called brandy.

When everyone had settled back comfortably, the Soviet charge d'affaires revealed that Mr. Valentin Ivanov, the new press attache, had recently arrived at the embassy. He said he thought inviting them was a good idea.

It was a beautiful private club. And there sat two well-dressed women putting out their cigarettes on the polished parquet floor.

Such disregard for property shows a lack of breeding no amount of money or fine clothes can hide.

Ivanov to join the Press Club would help both the press attache and the club.

The newsmen were astonished. They explained that Ivanov had been made a member three weeks earlier under a rule which automatically admits all foreign press attaches to the club.

It seemed Russian intelligence had been asleep on this case.

Pakistan Diplomats take pride in the easygoing, gracious parties they are famous for throwing.

That's why they were mystified to see so much unusual activity going on at one of their recent cocktail affairs. Some of the guests were hurrying from person to person, stopping briefly to whisper a few words and then rushing off again.

Later it was learned that Assistant State Department Press Officer Julius Walker was responsible for all the mysterious going on. Walker, who has just become the father of a baby girl, had passed out some expensive Havana cigars.

Some of the guests were trying to stock up on the rich tobacco by collecting the cigars from the nonsmokers.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) reads Greek classics and volumes on foreign policy faster than most people skim through a paperback thriller.

Since Congress adjourned, he has breezed through such volumes as "The Meditations of Marcus Aurelius," "Bacon's Essays," "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy," and several volumes on the life of Lincoln.

Other day a friend asked him how long it took him to read a thick volume on sociology. "I was a little slow getting through that one," Douglas answered. "It took me three hours."

Democrats Aren't likely to run short of campaign funds next election year as long as they don't throw away their old clothes.

At a recent party auction in Kansas, Mrs. George Docking, wife of the governor, sold one of her hats for $20. Lt. Gov. Joe Henkle got the same price for an old necktie which he wore to Ike's inauguration.

Former U. S. Treasury Georgia Neese Gray didn't have any old clothes she wanted to sell. So she just signed her name. It was worth $12.

October is National Donut Month. To celebrate the event, the National Donut Association will launch another campaign for "bigger, better and more frequent dunking in the United States."

NDA officials say this will be the biggest donut-dunking drive in history. The organization's new slogan is "Get Out of Your Shell—Dunk!"

It may be noteworthy that leaders of neither party are making any great claims at this point.

For one thing, they don't want to be accused of capitalizing on a tragic situation even though, in the long run, they may hope to do exactly that.

For another, political planners—especially since the Truman upset of 1948—tend to be more cautious than they used to be. To the advantage has a way of turning into tomorrow's liability.

Nobody knows what turn the situation in the South may take. Nobody knows what problems—inflation? The international situation?—may arise to become the No. 1 issue in the minds of most voters.

Nobody knows, either, who the candidates will be. And this, as often before, could prove more important than segregation or any other issue.

The World Today

By ED CREAGH

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Whatever may happen next in Little Rock, or elsewhere in the South, the 1958 and 1960 elections will be held.

That's the prediction. Some seems safe to make in the troubled integration picture. Whatever else happens, politics will go on as usual.

The campaigns will be complicated, of course, by the whole civil rights situation, by the Little Rock disorders and President Eisenhower's calling out federal troops, in particular.

Politicians and those who try to keep tabs on the politicians were busy assessing the portents by the time the first paratrooper piled out of a plane in Arkansas.

A variety of their predictions has got into print.

Republicans sound the more optimistic, for two main reasons:

1. They think they'll pick up great numbers of northern Negro votes as a result of the President's decisive action in calling out troops at Little Rock. This comes as a great relief to them. They'd been afraid previously that Negroes would think Eisenhower was dithering when he should have been acting to enforce the anti-segregation decrees.

2. GOP strategists think, or at least hope, the Democratic party has blown apart again along its North-South seam. Some Democrats concede they may be right. Some—like Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.)—say it's just as well. "It would mean getting the Dixiecrats out of the party," says Douglas. Others, like Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), lament the possible loss of a single vote. Johnson could hardly be expected to welcome a collapse of the North-South truce.

He would need a united party if he hoped to get the party's presidential nomination.

Democrats see possible advantages to themselves growing out of the integration fight:

1. They don't see how a Republican presidential candidate could carry a single Southern state after a Republican president called out the "Feds" Eisenhower cracked the "Solid" South in 1954, and Democrat Harry Truman lost part of it in 1948. The Democratic argument is that Dixie is safe from the Republicans for the next few years even though a new states rights party should arise and threaten to take some states from the Democrats.

2. Democratic planners wonder if the Republicans didn't lose a pile of votes in the north as well as in the South through the President's use of federal troops. They figure a good many white Northerners are against integration and resent the President's action. How the Democrats can appeal to this group, while coming up with a civil rights stand which will attract Negroes, is one of many problems to be ironed out at the party's 1960 convention.

It may be noteworthy that leaders of neither party are making any great claims at this point.

For one thing, they don't want to be accused of capitalizing on a tragic situation even though, in the long run, they may hope to do exactly that.

For another, political planners—especially since the Truman upset of 1948—tend to be more cautious than they used to be. To the advantage has a way of turning into tomorrow's liability.

Inexpensive Paradise,
That's Guttenberg
BY BEULAH STOWE

Between the Palisades of the Hudson River and the Mississippi River lies a town called Guttenberg, Iowa. It is a town where a man living on a retirement income could be a big man.

It is located on U.S. Highway 52, about 40 miles north of Dubuque, Iowa, and midway between Chicago, Ill., and Minneapolis, Minn. It describes itself as the center of the Little Switzerland of America.

It is beautiful, and it is unpolluted. It's lonely. It has no Broadway and no Times Square. Its residents drive new cars, some kind of boats, and let junk accumulate in their back yards.

Here's what makes Guttenberg a good bet for the retired man:

1. It has only a few nice homes by city standards. It is not a wealthy town. A retirement income would stack up pretty well.

2. Meat prices are lower than in most cities. Merchandise sold in stores is middle-grade, lower-priced.

3. It's got fish. Many varieties of bass, northern pike, perch, crappie, bullhead, and catfish. Catfish dinners sell for 85 cents in restaurants. Fishing and boating offer inexpensive amusement.

4. It is becoming increasingly aware of its tourist attractions. A city man could take part in the town's development as a tourist center.

5. It has history and charm. Old houses, church steeples, German names, rich farms, stone cliffs, and the river makes it a painter's and dreamer's paradise.

The main street of town is only a parkway's distance from the river. There is a U.S. government dam, and a government aquarium displaying the varieties of fish found in the Mississippi. There are friendly people, plainly dressed.

It's far from being the only town of its kind in the country. There are similar river towns in many states. But it is an example of the kind of town where a beautiful natural setting lends enchantment to the small town. It is a town with a personality.

Q—"I am a widow, badly in need of some extra income. Can you tell me how to go about making money by sewing? I could make alterations on dresses or make new clothes on order."—P.M.

A—"The easiest way is to put an ad in the newspaper and sit back and wait. If your town already has a large number of seamstresses, this will bring only fair results. You might rent a small store (upstairs if necessary) and hang out a shingle and call it the Sew-It Shop."

You might send out invitations to girls of high school age inviting them to join your classes in sewing, knitting, etc. You might contract with a local store to supply it with doll clothes and hand-knitted items.

You might get a job as a demonstrator in a dress goods department or an assistant in a sewing machine shop. You might send out letters to your friends and neighbors telling them that you would create or copy any dress they wanted, to their order. Good luck.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Nehemiah: A Great Builder

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

In the broad field of history two types of great men appear, entirely different from each other in purpose and action, and suggesting a question as to what really constitutes greatness.

On the one hand have been the great destroyers; the men who have left cities in ruins and peoples dispersed and destroyed. On the other have been the great builders who, even out of seeming ruin and destruction, have often brought restoration and rebuilding.

Sometimes the purposeful builders have become the great destroyers because they did not build wisely or well. The great example of that in our time is Hitler, who, whatever his purpose, to build a great Germany and a German-dominated world, became the greatest destroyer of all—including himself.

Moreover, the recently published papers of von Holstein, long associated with the German Foreign Ministry until he retired in 1906, seem to make it clear that the seeds of the destruction that came upon Germany in World War I and II were sown by Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor," in his seemingly triumphant building.

But some builders have been great and untroubled in achievement as well as in purpose. Among the great, true builders, none has been more typical than Nehemiah, the cupbearer to the Babylonian monarch.

The Book of Nehemiah tells how he organized and led Jewish exiles back to the rebuilding of the Jerusalem and homeland from which Nebuchadnezzar had torn their forebears.

I say "forebears" for, considering the dates, I think it is doubtful whether any of the original exiles were among those who returned.

It was no small achievement to keep alive the religious zeal and patriotism that made the return possible, and it should never be forgotten that of the exiled community many remained to establish in Babylon a Jewish temple.

LONG RUN
NEW YORK (AP)—A limited engagement has become the longest off-Broadway theatrical run in New York for "The Threepenny Opera."

The Kurt Weill-Berthold Brecht work opened in March, 1954, and after 98 performances had to give up the theater when its lease expired. The following September it was able to return to the same community many remained to establish in Babylon a Jewish temple.

FAMILY DINNER HONORS YOUTH IN HILLVIEW

PATTERSON—A family dinner was held last Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bunting, in Hillview, honoring their grandson, Gary Bigham, of Patterson, who has been enjoying a furlough the past few weeks.

Others present at the dinner were Gary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fariell Bigham, and sister, Garole, of Patterson; Mr. and Mrs. Harold King and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bunting, all of East Alton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Powell and children and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnold and two sons, all of Hillview.

Mr. and Mrs. Fariell Bigham and son, Gary, and daughter, Garole, of Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Killebrew and Mrs. Nettie Kessinger, of Hillview, and Mrs. Lloyd Bryant of California, were recent supper guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Bradford and sons.

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Dawdy recently received a congratulatory message from Secretary of State, Charles F. Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter, congratulating them on their fifth-first wedding anniversary, which was September 12.

According to workmen in that vicinity, the bridge between Patterson and Glasgow has been repaired and is now open to traffic. The bridge, which is in Scott county and crosses Little Sandy Creek, has been out since the flood of June 14 causing all north and southbound traffic to detour either to the Bluff road or the highway through Alsey.

HE MAKES MODEL WINDMILLS

Most model enthusiasts whittle their replicas out of the softest woods they can find and then stick the parts together with glue. W. M. Patterson of Chambersburg does it the hard way—making the parts of metal and welding them together.

Many people have enjoyed watching one of his windmills as the fan spins in front of his residence on the Valley City road. The fan is geared to the paddle-wheel of a model Illinois river packet of long ago—and the harder the wind blows the faster the paddle spins.

"I just enjoy making little windmills," Patterson says. "I sold out my welding shop business four years ago and haven't too much to do, except my clock repairing and my gardening. My wife died 23 years ago and I've been batching it ever since."

The first windmill he made is now perched atop Don Irving's mailbox in the north end of town.

Could Have Sold More "I guess I've made a half-dozen or so of them, different styles and different designs," Patterson observed, "and I could have sold that many more if I had them."

"A couple of guys from Beardstown want to buy this boat and windmill. I said, 'O.K., $100.' They offered $75 and went away, but I'm still holding out for $100."

The gears at the top of the windmill are out of an old one-gallon butter churn. The transverse gear is from a discarded egg beater and Patterson can't recall where he found the third set of gears "or what they came out of."

He likes to garden in the summer time and fix clocks in the winter. Last summer he picked 31½ gallons of fine Cumberland black raspberries from a hundred bushes and the winter before he repaired and sold 42 clocks.

"Guess I have a dozen or so clocks on hand right now," he says. "Would have to count them to be sure."

Money In The Bank

In his garage he has something he figures is better than money in the bank—a 1911 White 4-cylinder automobile in fine shape.

Henry Buchanan bought it new in Washington State for $3,000 and drove it out here. He made another round trip in it to Washington before selling it to Patterson for $150.

"About two years or so ago," Patterson relates, "a junk man from Hannibal came around and wanted to buy it for junk. Before he left he offered me $900 for it. Then a man from Jacksonville offered me a swap for a new Plymouth, and another man said he'd give me $3,500. Just lately another old car fan looked her over and said he'd make it even money, $4,000. But they tell me my capital gains tax on it would be around $900 or maybe more, so I'm just keeping her for the moment."

Coal Oil Lights

The car, jacked up and on blocks in the garage, has four good tires on varnished wooden wheels. The brass radiator shell gleams. It's a right-handed model, with front lights burning acetylene. The two side lights and the taillights burn coal oil.

"I'm going to keep her for a while and see what happens," Patterson asserts. "And if I get any spare time I'm going to build some more windmills."

A VISITOR AT NAPLES

Phil Akeret At Naples Landing

Before the white man came to America, and for three centuries afterwards, the canoe was the best way to travel.

In the northern sections of the new land the canoe was a novel affair, light and seaworthy, built from the bark of the birch tree supported by a framework of spruce and cedar. The bark was attached to the frame by rawhide and thread pulled from tamarack roots, with the joints made water-tight by daubings of hot, sweet-smelling balsam.

Farther south the canoe was made from the hides of deer and buffalo and, still farther south, by hollowing out a log.

High Waters Cut Portages
The canoe gave the Indian the means to cover vast distances, particularly if he began his trip soon after the ice went out at springtime. Then the high waters between watersheds met in the swamps between and thousands of miles could be made without a single portage.

U.I. archeologists excavating a trash pit on the Pool farm north of Chambersburg found much evidence of trade between the tribes. Commingled with fish and turtle bones and the sherds of pottery made at Naples were obsidian from Wyoming, marble from Georgia, pipestone from southwestern Minnesota and wampum manufactured from the unusual clam shells at Yucatan, Mexico.

Phil Akeret, 25, of Cape May, N. J., was in Naples Thursday. He paused to rest a little and to paint the bottom of his 14 foot Peterborough canoe, which he has paddled some 4,000 miles thus far, since May 16 headed for New Orleans and Brownsville, Texas.

Akeret came to the U.S. from Switzerland with his parents 14 years ago. His father runs a shrimp boat at Cape May. Last winter Phil and a buddy decided to go on a long canoe trip, their friends said they couldn't do it.

"Enough," Partner Says
For 60 miles everything was O.K. Then the young voyagers ran into trouble. A water skier got rattled and passed on the wrong side of the canoe, and the tow line struck the canoe and capsize it. The skier and his towboat kept right on going, and Akeret lost his sleeping bag, jungle hammock, movie camera, 22 rifle and his partner.

The latter said he had had enough and went home. Akeret moved into the Hudson river and went up to Troy, through the canal into Lake Champlain, down the St. John's river to Ottawa and then Toronto and Windsor to Lake St. Clair and then into the river of the same name where high waters enabled him to move into Lake Huron. From Bay City, Mich., he moved into the Saginaw river, and a pattern of small rivers to get into Grand river and down it to Lake Michigan.

'Coffee Breaks' Aid White Hall Hospital Fund

WHITE HALL — Among these entertaining with "coffee breaks" for the benefit of purchasing needed equipment for the White Hall Hospital are Mrs. Hal Galhuly, Mrs. Hal S. Nevius, Mrs. Donald G. Evans, Mrs. Lee Griswold, Miss Helen Worcester, Mrs. Ethel Ross, Mrs. G. L. Ross, Mrs. Lee Hartline, Miss Edith Chapin, Mrs. Albert Conrad.

Each hostess is asked to invite four White Hall Hospital Auxiliary members, and friends, each asked to contribute a nominal amount toward this purchase. Many other members have given coffee breaks and others are planning to do so.

Local News Notes
Daylight Savings time ended Saturday night in White Hall, when all residents turned their clocks back one hour, the regular time beginning at 2 a.m. Sunday morning, Sept. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wyatt and two children of Farmington, Mo., are spending a week's vacation with relatives.

Mrs. Edward Giller has returned following a summer visit with her mother Mrs. J. J. Davis, and her sister, Mrs. B. M. Bloomfield, in Maine.

The Jaycees Women's Club announces a coffee break and bake sale to be held Oct. 11, with funds to be used for sponsoring the Girl Scouts.

New students registered for the 129th year of Illinois College are Gary Dawdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Dawdy, and Paul Pratt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Pratt, all of this city.

Lonell Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rochester, has entered his freshman year at Western Illinois University, Macomb.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davis have gone to Durham, N. C., to visit her son and family, John F. Moulton, and Mr. Davis' sister, Mrs. B. M. Towns, in Martinsville, Va. They expect to be away two weeks.

France's casualties in World War I were 1,285,000 soldiers and sailors killed. This includes combat troops only, not civilians.

"I had $60 when I left and have $10 now," he continued. "I worked a little on farms in Canada and in Michigan, and I washed down the walls and waxed the floors at a yacht club in Michigan. Took me seven hours and they paid me $10, which I thought was pretty good."

He says he's a pretty good cook and his favorite menu includes mushroom soup, beans and hash.

Different Kinds of People
His feelings on hospitality are rather mixed.

"I've been run off some of the best beaches in the country—and a lot of people have insisted that I come to their homes for a hot bath, a meal and a bed. There's all kinds of people in this country, I can tell you that."

His biggest experience was the day following a night landing in Michigan. He woke up in the morning to find that he was in a nudist camp.

"They insisted that I spend the day with them—and so I did. Pretty easy on the clothes, but some briars scratched me," he reported.

"It gets mighty lonesome on the river," he continued, "and I'd like to have a partner, male or female. A college girl in Detroit wanted to go with me, but her boyfriend wouldn't let her. Pretty sticky of him, I thought. 'I haven't the slightest idea of why I'm on this trip, but I'm going to make it to Brownsville. After that, who knows? Maybe to South America!'"

Roaring Protest

High above the crowd in London's Trafalgar Square, this stone lion "roared" in protest against the H-bomb. ROUTE OF ATOMIC ICEBREAKER—The world's first atomic-powered surface ship, the Russian icebreaker "V.I. Lenin," will be launched at Leningrad this fall. I. K. Yakimovich, director of the Arctic museum in Leningrad, says the 16,000-ton ship, powered by nuclear-generated steam engines delivering 44,000 horsepower, will be able to keep the Arctic Ocean route open 12 months a year. Ships have from Murmansk to Vladivostok (dotted line on map) open 12 months a year. Ships have previously been able to navigate the frozen wastes, where ice is sometimes 35 feet thick, only two or three months each year. The northern route is 11,000 miles shorter than the 15,000-mile shipping line south from Murmansk to Vladivostok (unbroken line on map) through the Suez Canal and Indian and Pacific Oceans. The "Lenin" is designed to blast through even the thickest ice with "water cannons," delivering steel-hard, thin streams of water that cut ice like a knife.

Meredosia Men Visit In Germany With Relatives

MEREDOSIA—Walter Alhorn and Frank Yeakel, Meredosia residents, recently returned from a trip to Germany, where they visited relatives.

They left Springfield Airport on Sunday, August 25, transferred to a Lufthansa plane in New York and arrived in Frankfurt on Monday evening.

At Frankfurt they separated. Mr. Alhorn went to Dusseldorf and Osnabruck where he was met by cousins. He visited cousin Henry Walting at Lustingen, Rosenbaum in Munster and another in Engter. He saw the house that his mother had lived in when she was a girl. He called on relatives of other families around Meredosia—Ommen's, Roegge's and Hoffmeier's.

Mr. Yeakel was met by cousins who lived about 90 miles from Frankfurt. One cousin is a game warden in the Black Forest and arranged for his guest to go hunting there. Mr. Yeakel shot a wild boar. The German cousins live in a house that also contains quarters for their farm animals. They consider themselves fortunate in having a three-acre farm on which they raise wheat, oats, potatoes, and a kind of large turnip for cow and hog feed. Mr. Yeakel observed that plows were pulled by milk cows, driven by the farmer with his wife guiding the plow.

The two men rejoined each other at Frankfurt. Their return flight was by Shannon, Gander, Montreal, Chicago and Springfield, arriving home on Sept. 18.

CARS ARE MY LINE

by: E. W. Brown

FOLLOWING, PASSING AND BRIGHT LIGHTS

In the past we've talked a bit about safety, speed laws and the testing of cars. But, as the old saying goes, the most important part of a car is the nut behind the wheel. Bad driving. I've always felt, comes more from not knowing the rules than from outright cussedness.

For driving on the open highway the three things that worry us most, I think, are how closely should you follow? How much room should you allow to pass? How can you defend yourself from bright lights?

When the driving is good, the weather clear and the highway fairly straight, the best rule is to allow one car length between you and the fellow up ahead, for every 10 miles an hour of speed. At 50 miles an hour, therefore, you should be at least five car lengths behind.

At 60 miles an hour it takes at least 10 seconds to pass another car and you should have at least 600 feet of clear, straight road ahead. Keep in mind that for safe passing you need the length of two football fields, a long, long way. (I'd sooner be driving it than running it.)

The rule on headlight glare is better known: keep your eyes on the right hand side of the road. That keeps you on the road and helps to keep the light out of your eyes.

And, of course, every nut in the car—except the one behind the wheel—should be thoroughly tight. A sound, reliable car is not only a big step towards safety in itself, it gives you, as the owner, a peace of mind that brings happier, safer driving. That's why the cars on our used car lot are tested, tightened and tried, before they're ever shown to you.

One of the outstanding cars on our lot this week is a 1954 Chrysler N. Y. 4 Dr. Sedan. Finished in beautiful Brewster green with matching broadcloth upholstery. This car is equipped with every convenience for your driving pleasure including a brand new set of Royal Master Nylon tires. It's really a dream.

XXIX

McKee and Carney arrived at the chemical plant on the South Cornwell shore some 25 minutes later. Steven Task was conscious. The bullet Bob Brown had pumped into him had been extracted. With Steven Task in his office were the doctor, a nurse and the visitor from Washington whom Task had been expecting. Edmund Dirksen, one of the firm's vice-presidents. Dirksen was a tall, scholarly fellow as glum as an owl who had swallowed a brick.

Task had been shot through the left shoulder. The doctor said the bullet had taken an upward course. "He's lucky. A couple of inches lower and to the left—"

Steven Task was weak from loss of blood and shock but he was able to talk. He corroborated the secretary's call. Bob Brown had shot him.

Carney didn't wait for more. Brown was gone, and so was his car. The police down the line were already alerted and he couldn't get off the Cape, but he had a gun. The doctor and the nurse followed Carney out, leaving Dirksen and McKee alone with Steven Task. Task refused to remain lying down, he sat in the chair usually reserved for visiting firemen.

Bolled down, the story was simple. Bob Brown couldn't live on his salary so he had put his hand in the till. The lab was working with the government on certain phases of biological warfare. Bob Brown had access to some top-secret stuff, and he had taken advantage of it. He had been gotten at...

AFTER McKee left Task the night before, Task had called Dirksen in Washington, and blame. You've got your own work—"

Task said simply "Actually, what Brown sold was a pup, they have something almost as good; but what we're developing now—" The two men exchanged glances.

McKee broke in at that point. There were certain things that had to be established as soon as possible. Brown wasn't operating in a vacuum. "Who was Brown's contact up here, Mr. Task? Any ideas on that?"

Task frowned. "I can't tell you that, either. But have a look at it—he and Crysta and I Dolwin were pretty thick when she was at Satterlee's school in July and August. You can't gamble without funds, and Bob was getting money from somewhere. If he was on the take, Melville could have found out about it and tried to cut himself in..."

McKee stretched out a hand for the phone. He called the farmhouse on Rand Road in which Crystabel Dolwin had a room. A man of Carney's had seen her home at two o'clock that morning. She hadn't stayed there.

Task was white around the gills. His wound was beginning to hurt.

Task said very little going back in the car. His chief anxiety was the gun in Bob Brown's possession. It had been fully loaded and there were still five bullets left.

McKee was not so sanguine. Bob Brown wasn't stupid and the first thing he'd probably do when he put some distance between himself and the laboratory would be to ditch his own car and either try for another or go to ground somewhere until at least after dark.

Carla Task was waiting when they turned into the Task driveway. She was white and anxious; Miss Mulray had phoned her. Task got out unassisted. "Thanks, Inspector, I can manage." His wife threw her arms around him. "Steve!..." When they first called I thought you were dead... Oh, my dear—"

4-H Club Activities

The North Side Ag club met Sept. 16 at North Jacksonville school. In the absence of the president and vice president, the secretary, Connie Houston, was in charge.

The pledge to the flag and to the 4-H flag opened the meeting. Minutes were read and approved. There were 28 members and two leaders and four guests present.

Officers for the coming year were named: president, Wayne Tomhave; vice president, Walter Hynes; secretary, Sherrie Houston; treasurer, Larry Keenher; reporter, C. B. Hadden; recreation chairman, Darrell DePrates; music, Nancy Hadden; safety, Sue Fairfield; health, Bobby Hadden; federation delegates, Eddy DeGroot, Larry DeGroot, Ralph Hubbard and Wayne Tomhave.

The next meeting on Oct. 21 will be a winter roast at the home of Carolyn Bunting. All attending are to take own wieners and buns.

William Cody won his title of "Buffalo Bill" in 1887 by killing 12 buffalo a day for 18 months to help feed crews building the Kansas Pacific Railroad across Kansas to Denver.

The original site of Charleston, capital of West Virginia, was purchased in 1887 by George Clendenin, a member of the Virginia Assembly, for five shillings.
